HAWKEYES TAKE PRACTICE

Captain "Lochinvar" Locke Leads Eleven Into Almost Vacant Yale Bowl.

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 13.—Capt. "Lochinvar" Locke led his husky Hawyeke eleven at a fast trot into the great almost vacant Yale bowl this afternoon for practice preliminary to the clash with the Blue eleven tomorrow.

The Iowa eleven arrived in town shortly after noon in a special car.

"Every man on the team is fit and ready for the Yale game," Coach Howard Jones declared as his charges shifted into moleskins.

The Hawkeye squad, picturesque in fresh yellow and black uniforms, were quickly in action. Half a dozen footballs were in the air, soaring up thru the gray white background of the bowl, to the clear blue sky above.

Some of the Iowa men gazed in wonder at the wide open spaces of the bowl.

Tomorrow, according to all advance information, these spaces will be a mass of color, as it now appears that nearly 60,000 will come out for the game.

Yale also ran thru final practice today with Neidlinger handling the team.

PROBE BLAZE ON HONOLULU

SHIPPING BOARD TO SUSTAIN TWO MILLION LOSS.

No Word Reaches Los Angeles to Account for Origin of Disastrous Fire—Officials Promise Thoro Inquiry.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13.—With definite news the rescue of passengers and crew of the still burning liner City of Honolulu, interest at her home port today centered on investigation of what caused the sea conflagration that probably will result in a $2,000,000 loss.

Officials of the United States steamship inspectors office in San Pedro promised a thoro report.

Steamship company officers, admitting they were at a loss to guess the cause of the disastrous blaze and who, until the last moment, minimized accounts of the fire, asserted their desire to have the matter sifted thoroly.

No word has come to give the slightest clue to the origin of the fire or the conditions aboard that caused it to spread so rapidly that passengers and crew were forced to take to life boats in the open sea within a short time after the first was discovered.

From radio reports that have thus far been received, it is evident that only the fortunate circumstances of a calm sea and clear weather and the miraculous proximity of other vessels prevented loss of life and possibly a terrific disaster.

Scant hopes were held out for the salvage of the burning hulk, as it is estimated that the heat of the fire will soon burst the plates of the once luxurious liner before tugs and cutters can reach the scene.

Ralph J. Chandler, vice president of the Los Angeles Steamship company said:

"Company officers are at a loss to hazard the slightest guess as to how the disaster originated. Preparations are being made for a most sweeping investigation.

"The City of Honolulu was equipped with the latest fire fighting apparatus and every possible emergency measure must have been taken before officers and crew left the ship.

"The vessel is chartered to our company and the loss will be sustained by the shipping board."

Wireless messages received here from the passengers after being taken aboard the West Farrallone praised the skill and action of the City of Honolulu crew.

Describes Disaster.

WILMINGTON, Cal., Oct. 13.—Capt. H. R. Lester, commander of the burned liner City of Honolulu, described the burning of his ship today in a radiogram to the Los Angeles Steamship company, operators of the vessel, here.

He paid tribute to the courage of the passengers and expressed the opinion that the Honolulu was not worth salvaging.

"Passengers were composed and brave," especially the women," his report said.

Captain Lester did not mention cause of the fire and it was believed that the cause was not known to him.

"Fire discovered in second cabin about 4 a. m. Thursday," the report read.

"Due to dense smoke great difficulty was experienced in fighting the blaze but water was pumped into compartments as long as possible. When engine room got hot, pumps were stopped. After the passengers had entered lifeboats, the captain, first mate, and chief radio operator abandoned ship.

"All passengers were in boats by 9 a. m. They were picked up by the West Farrallone about 3 p. m. The Thomas.

"She stood by waiting until daylight about 7:30, reaching scene at 1 a. m. today.

Steaming south to the rescue, saw fire to take passengers aboard from Farrallone which had picked them up. This took some time.

"Passengers were composed and brave, especially the women. Passengers and crew are now safe on the Thomas enroute to San Francisco.

"Master of Thomas concurred with me in opinion that the City of Honolulu is not worth salvage. Master of Farrallone is of same opinion."

The radiogram gave instructions to prepare for the care of the passengers on arrival at San Francisco.

Then, she sets forth in papers which have been served on the husband, she went to Pinkham's apartment with detectives and was admitted. There, she charges, she saw Zoe in a filmy, clinging nightie. Pinkham, not there at the time, was served with papers later.

POISON PEN TO CAUSE A SUIT

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 13.—Suit for defamation of character will be started within two weeks by Mrs. Onzemia De Bouchel against Asa G. Candler, former Coca Cola king, according to her attorney.

Mrs. De Bouchel and her lawyer, Harry Gamble, have gone to New Orleans where further investigations will be made into the authorship of the alleged "poison pen" letters said to have caused Candler to break off his engagement to her. The suit against Candler will be instituted on their return to Atlanta.

Mrs. DeBouchel, just prior to her departure, reiterated that she had no desire to prosecute Candler.

"I am fighting for vindication and even the feelings of respect and esteem in which I formerly held Mr. Candler cannot be allowed to interfere in this fight."

MRS HALL TO TELL IT ALL

WIDOW OF SLAIN RECTOR WILLING TO TESTIFY.

Has Not Collapsed as Was Previously Reported But Is in Seclusion at New Brunswick Home.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 13.—Mrs. Francis W. Hall, widow of the pastor slain with Mrs. Eleanor Mills in New Jersey's greatest mystery, has decided to tell once again all she knows about the murder.

The authorities, turning from examination of a little group of half-wits whom they have been questioning on "mistaken identity" theory, today turned back to the "vengeance" theory and decided, it was stated on high authority, to question the widow once more.

Counsel for Mrs. Hall, who has lived the life of an austere recluse in her luxurious home, denying herself to interviewers since the tragedy, said the widow would now be willing to go to the court house and tell her full story.

This dramatic episode was expected to take place tonight.

It will follow a complete collapse of Mrs. Hall at her home late today, the widow was reported to be in seclusion but not ill or in bed, as some reports from the household had her.

GREEK BOY APPEARS DOOMED

Child Who Saw Three Brothers Butchered by Turks Tried to Slip Into America.

ELLIS ISLAND, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Petros Rahlis is doomed to go back to Smyrna where he saw the Turks butcher his three brothers and tie other Greek children in bags and drown them, unless Secretary of Labor Davis intervenes.

The fifteen-year old boy, who stowed away on the steamer Asia lying in Symrna harbor when the Kemalists started their atrocities, pleaded today to be allowed to stay in the United States.

But Assistant Immigration Commissioner Landis, to whom he made his plea, told the bay that only the secretary of labor at Washington could save him from the probable fate o his brothers.

Interpreters gave this information to Petros who also saw his parents captured and his big sister carried away in bondage.

"Sympathy can't be allowed to figure in this case," said Landis. "If we let one or two go, the country will soon be overrun with refugees."

Petros, bewildered by the strange Americans who admonish him by not killing him here instead of sending him to certain death, went back to detention quarters to await the next boat to return him to Smyrna.

He is a brigh and intelligent looking school boy, eager to tell his story to friendly interpreters. He has coal black haid and a typical Greek profile and his body is cramped into a soiled and very small suit of castoff clothes.

"Please don't send me back. I will die," he pleaded. "There is no more Smyrna for Christians."

Petros has an aunt in New York City but he does not know how to reach her. Otherwise he is utterly alone in the world.

SAYS SOCIETY IS TO BLAME

LINDSEY BLAMES NEITHER AUTOS NOR MOVIES.

Home Not Responsible for Girls' Leaving Home, Either, Denver Juvenile Judge Asserts in Interview.

DENVER, Oct. 13.—Neither the automobile nor the movie is to blame for girls leaving home.

Nor can the parents or the girls themselves be blamed, according to Juvenile Judge Ben B. Lindsey, commenting on the statement of Judge Mary Bartelme, Chicago juvenile authority that movies and automobiles are the modern answer to "Why girls leave home."

"The stupidity of a social organization that insists upon ignorance is the cause," declared Judge Lindsey.

"If parents and teachers understood girls better psychologically as well as biologically, the condition could be remedied. What we need is understanding.

"I'm tired of hearing teachers and preachers blaming the home and the parent. You can't simply pigeonhole the cause and single out one or two conditions.

"Society is to blame."

U. S. VESSELS TO STAY DRY

INJUNCTION PROCEEDINGS NOT TO AFFECT RULING.

So Far as Harding Is Concerned Shipping Board Craft Cannot Carry Liquor Anyway, Lasker Announces.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Shipping board vessels will remain dry by President Harding's order regardless of the outcome of injunction proceedings brought in New York in behalf of private American ship owners, Chairman Lasker of the shipping board said here today.

President Harding holds that government owned vessels are American territory under the Daugherty ruling and are subject to the Volstead act, Lasker said. If private owners are successful in having the ruling set aside, shipping board liners will nevertheless remain dry by his order.

Harding and cabinet devoted nearly their entire session today to a discussion of the various phases of the recent ruling prohibiting liquor on American vessels.

However no definite decision of any kind for further action was taken by the cabinet, Secretary Weeks said after the meeting. Weeks said that there had been a general discussion of the whole subject.

BLAMES FARMERS FOR TAXES

Clark Jeary Tells Omaha League of Women Voters Good Roads and T. B. Fight Are Costly.

OMAHA, Oct. 13.—Clark Jeary of Lincoln, republican member of the legislature who helped to enact the code law, defended it here in a speech before the Douglas county branch of the league of women voters.

Jeary, who is chairman of the speakers' bureau for the republican state committee, was sent here to take the place of C. H. Randall, candidate for governor. He admitted that state taxes have doubled under the McKelvie administration, but said the farmers of Nebraska were largely responsible for this.

"I can not deny there has been an increase of employes under the code bill," said Jeary, "but if you want to place the blame of the increase of taxes, lay it to the good roads committee and the farmers. The farmers have wanted good roads, and while some of them objected to $120,000 appropriation for the state tuberculosis hospital at Kearney, they have received $300,000 to help fight bovine tuberculosis."

GAVE WHISKY AS PREMIUM

And Omaha Woman Won the Trade From Competitors to Her Store.

OMAHA, Oct. 13—The giving away of a drink of corn whiskey with every purchase is a good way to increase trade, but a rather expensive custom when caught, was the testimony in police court today of Mrs. A. Gocher, proprietor of a soft drink and confectionary store here.

Serg. Frank Williams and his moral squad raided the Kocher store Thursday an dseized one and one-half quarts of corn liquor.

"I was not selling it, judge," said Mrs. Kocher to Police Judge Wappich.

"Business was so bad taht I kept the liquor to give my customers. When I started giving away drinks men would stopat my place instead of going to other stores nearby."

"I believe you lady," responded Judge Wappich. "I will fine you $20 and costs on a disorderly charge, dismiss the illegal possession and order the whiskey destroyed.

"But even if business is bad I would advise you to cut out giving a drink as a premium on purchases."

"I certainly will," promised Mrs. Kocher.

AG COLLEGE FLOCK EGGS WIN

Take Two Firsts and One Second at Minnesota Fair.

Eggs selected and graded by trade school students in regular poultry laboratory work at the agricultural college won two firsts and one second premium at the national poultry exposition in session now at the Minnesota state fair grounds. These eggs were produced in the ag college flock. The men won first and second on white and first on brown eggs and deserve much credit for their expert work in grading. The exposition is a comparatively new enterprise which is being rapidly developed in connection with the national dairy show. Nebraska is also represented there this year with an extension poultry exhibit and with a boys and girls club poultry demonstration team from Thayer county, which won a silver trophy on an exhibit of their birds. These boys and girls deserve much credit for their success in national competition.

They also entered in the national demonstration contest, the results of which have not been returned to Nebraska. Confidence in them to place well in this contest also should not be shattered, however, if the members of the team repeat their excellent work at the Nebraska state fair.

SCORES SCHOOL SYSTEM

Educator Says Million Dollar High Schools With Grades in Fire Traps Not Fair.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 13. — Million dollar high schools, side by side with fire traps for the elementary grades, were scored by Frederick H. Bair, superintendent of schools at Colorado Springs, in his address, "Elements of a Successful School System," before the second district of the Nebraska state teachers' association this morning.

"No city should build million dollar high schools and leave its little ones in outlying buildings and fire traps," he said. "It is manifestly unfair to build for the 10 per cent who continue thru the high school, and let the 90 per cent remain in the buildings of 1860."

Glaring faults of the present day system were attacked by Mr. Bair.

"The modern high school is pathetically and tragically failing to adjust itself to a modern and changing life," he said. "To turn a boy out at eighteen, not able to do anything and not sure that he knows anything, is asinine and wasteful."

KEMALISTS CAUSE TROUBLE

TO DECIDE ON TRACK WAGE

Settlement of Dispute Believed Approaching.

2-CENT INCREASE ACCEPTABLE

Grable, However, Protests Its Insufficiency.

Labor Board Deadlock Over Problem Will Probably Be Broken by Vote of McMenimen, Following Grable's Message.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13—Settlement of the dispute among members of the U. S. railroad labor board over the amount of the wage increase to be given maintenance of way workers appeared near today.

The agreement was expected to follow receipt of a telegram by Walter F. McNenimen, a labor representative on the board, from Edward F. Grable, president of the maintenance of way union in which the union head, while protesting the insufficiency of a 2 cents an hour increase as proposed intimated that it would be acceptable

The labor board had been deadlocked in three divisions over the increase, the public representatives favoring a 2 cent an hour increase, the railroad members opposing any advance and the labor members holding that two cents was insufficient

Following receipt of Grable's telegram, McMenimen was reckoned as certain to vote for the 2 cent advance, breaking the deadlock. Whether A. O. Wharton, the other labor member, would follow McMenimen's lead was uncertain.

ALLEGE NO VACANCY ON BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Investment Company Attorneys Bring Plea in Court to Stop Proposed Gathering of Preferred Stockholders Monday.

The Nebraska Building & Investment company and George H. Walters, thru their attorneys, filed a petition Friday morning in district court asking an order restraining William E. Barkley, Benjamin and Paul F. Good, Fred Foster, S. M. Kier, F. A. Boehmer and Frank Boehmer and Lindley Hurst from calling a meeting of the preferred stockholders of the company. It has been planned that the meeting shall take place Monday, October 16, at the Lincoln hoitel.

The petition alleges that the meeting is entirely unauthorized and in direct violation of the company's articles of incorporation, its by-laws and certificates of stock; that there is no vacancy in the board of directors, and no charges have been preferred against the board or any of its members.

The hearing on the petition will be held Saturday morning before District Judge Clements. Attorney Fred Foster said Friday morning that the purpose of the proposed meeting is to elect a board of directors and to ratify the sale of the hotel property to Mr. Eppley.

Arguments on the case to determine whether common stock held by former officials Schaaf, Gore and Lohmeyer were without consideration were still in progress at noon Friday. The case might be decided before the end of the week, it was intimated. Under the articles of incorporation only the common stock was given a vote. Since then the state constitution confers the vote on every shareholder in a corporation.

ATTENDANCE VERY LARGE

NEARLY THREE THOUSAND AT STATE TEACHERS' MEETING.

Hear Distinguished Speakers From Other States Friday Morning—W. H. Morton Speaks on Educational Program.

The three addresses on the program Friday morning at St. Paul church of district No. 1 of the state teachers' association were by distinguished speakers from other states. Miss Mary Pennell, assistant superintendent of schools at Kansas City, Mo., spoke on "Tuning In;" President Uel Lamkin, of the teachers' college at Marysville, Mo., former state superintendent of Missouri, told the teacners the necessity of entrance into politics; and William B. Owen, president of the national education association, spoke on "The Functions of a National Teachers' Association."

The attendance was very large. District President Lefler said that 2,700 teachers had enrolled and that it was estimated that about 300 others had been attending sessions. At the close of the meeting roses and a leaflet containing a map of Lincoln were distributed to the teachers thru the courtesy of the chamber of commerce.

Superintendent W. H. Morton of Beatrice, president of the state teachers' association, presented a tentative report of a committee appointed by the executive committee to formulate future plans of the state association. He said that the report would be read at each of the six district meetings Friday. The committee who prepared the report was composed of W. H. Morton, chairman; E. M. Hosman, secretary; Eva B. Shuman, De W. E. Sealoc, George E Martin, George E. Kniprath, and Archie L. Burnham.

Mr. Morton said that none of the proposals of the committee would be presented to the next legislature. The effort to put education where it belongs would be preceded by a campaign of publicity to bring the matter before all the people. "The program may not be put over in two or four years, and some of it not for ten years," he said.

Among the provisions of the report were the following:

That every school give definite instruction in civics.

Betterment of the rural school thru better academic and professional training of the teachers, more adequate supervision, full time attendance, and improvement of rural school equipment.

That Nebraska should have a state board of education, selected by the people, who shall elect the state superintendent. Also a county board of education. That local tax for school purposes be supplemented by state and federal aid. That a health program be insisted upon; sanitation of school surroundings, and trained nurses be employed to safeguard health of schools. A state retirement fund for the teachers of Nebraska.

The provisions of the report will be discussed at the business meeting Saturday morning.

Greetings were read from several of the district meetings now in session, and also form the N. E. A. headquarters at Washington, D. C., thru the secretary, J. W. Crabtree, formerly of Lincoln.

"The magical caps and rings of fairy stories are not as magical as the stories of radio," said Miss Mary Pennell, of Kansas City, Mo., when telling members of the state teacher's association what it means to "tune in" on life.

"The best things in life can only be received by tuning in," she said. The apparatus must be adjusted to receive radio. So in life, adjustments must be made to the lives of others. Care should be taken to tune in for only worth while messages. In wireless, all cannot send messages, but in life all can send. Schools should be great broadcasting stations to keep people in tune with what is worth while in life. It is necessary for a teacher to be in tune with the best things, in order to help keep the children in tune."

She said psychological tests had proved of great value in placing children where they would be in tune. The making of good men and women she regarded as of more importance than the making of grades, but did not undervalue knowledge and skill.

"The time will come," she said, "when the teacher will become as much interested in the moral development of the child as of the intellectual. Standards of the right kind of action must be taught. Until a child has certain standards developed, he is neither moral nor immoral; he is unmoral. Children should be placed where they want to do the right thing. Environment is a prominent factor. Moral habits should be developed."

Miss Pennell spoke of the old time school room where pupils were not allowed to whisper, and of the modern school where children gather in groups to consult with the teacher or each other. The present method, she said, allows opportunity to develop tolerance. Leaders are also being developed and followers. Capable leaders and intelligent followers, she said, were needed. "In training children we are developing so many broadcasting stations. The teacher's responsibility is great, but her reward is without price."

"I come to you as a school teacher and an American citizen about things of importance to the world," said President Uel Lamkin of the teachers' college at Marysville, Kas., to the state teachers Friday morning. "The world war discovered the public school system. There was nothing done in the war in which the public schools did not do their part. After the war the schools remained in the public eye. Now schools are being used by many for propaganda purposes."

President Lambkin mentioned health subjects, fire prevention and other matters which should be taught within the schools and not by outsiders. He objected to the many holidays forced upon the schools by various interests. "In Missouri we used to have four holidays, now we have Columbus day, bird day holiday, election day holiday, ground hog day holiday—" The list paused amid laughter of the audience.

The audience was warned that the wave of retrenchment over the country would reach the schools and educational projects as well as in other directions. He said only 7 per cent of national taxes go for education, and little reduction could be made there. "In the states," he said, "the largest proportion of all taxes are used for education."

The teachers were told that it was their duty and business to help make a public fight for adequate support of the schools. He said the schools should not be exploited but be devoted to training children for tomorrow. He deprecated the present demands of preparation of the teacher and declared the time would soon come when teachers would be employed on their efficiency and not because of an A. B. degree. He said teachers should not confine their lives with the class room, but should take part in all worth while activities of the community where they belong and have an intelligent understanding of national problems.

"The Functions of a National Teachers' Organization" was presented to the state teachers by William B. Owen, president of the N. E. A., by telling something of what the association over which he presides has done or plans to do.

"Who is going to tell the people how to treat teachers and to keep schools?" he asked in his preliminary remarks. "There has never been another democracy that has tried to educate everybody. Our English ancestors who gave us social advice, had none to give on education. It ought not to be possible to drop a teacher who has been successful for twenty-five years in one place without a trial by those competent to judge. The teachers of Illinois expect to put thru a law of the kind.

"Teachers ought not to run the schools. Schools belong to the public, but teachers intend to tell the public how they ought to be run. Professional control of schools does not belong to the board of education but to a properly organized professional body. The national association no longer pays much attention to methods."

The kind of preparation of teachers, salaries and compulsory school law were among the things mentioned that teachers collectively should strive to regulate. "We are not agitators," he said. "We have to be wise, to be competent."

The N. E. A. was said to have grown in four years from 12,000 members to 120,000. Lincoln was mentioned as having 100 per cent membership. President Owen said the association now has a competent technical staff of 50 people in Washington, all of whom were well paid. The budget for next year was given at $240,000. A service bureau is to be built up thru which any teacher may obtain information.

Louis E George filed a petition in equity Friday morning in district court asking an accounting from Gus C. Stamos and a receiver appointed for the Pullman lunch room business at 1514 O street. Mr. George alleges that he and Mr. Stamos entered into a verbal agreement thirteen months ago for the partnership in the lunch room business. He declares that since that time he has worked steadily as a skilled baker, and has only drawn about $150; that Mr. Stamos has only put in his time but has drawn out about $3,000. He says that now Mr. Stamos is operating the lunch room for his own benefit

CARDS INTO THE DISCARD

CAMPAIGN MATERIAL COMES TOO LATE TO AMSBERRY.

Having Withdrawn From the Ballot, His Campaign Cards Must Be Withheld From Circulation.

Secretary of State D. M. Amsberry was in his usual good humor Friday and was in no wise disturbed by the receipt of letters congratulating him because he had filed for secretary of state as a candidate by petition, tho in fact he had recalled his decision to run for office. His recall was issued Thursday prior to the receipt of letters of congratulation.

Mr. Amsberry was not disturbed a little later when some one deposited on a desk in his office bundles containing several thousand campaign cards bearing his picture and name and the announcement that he is a candidate for "reelection by petition." He did not even notice the bundles until his attention was called to them by a visitor. A sample of the cards was fastened upon the outside of the bundles.

'I expect to throw them in the waste basket,' said Mr. Amsberry, 'for I certainly do not want any one to get hold of them and circulate them at the polls just before election. I did not order them printed and do not know who did give the order. I suppose it was the committee that had my campaign in charge.'

It has been proposed that Mr. Amsberry's campaign cards be placed in the same wastebasket with 'literature' printed by one democratic committee intended to make voters believe county and state taxes combined are only state taxes.

Mr. Amsberry still believes he could have been elected by petition if he had allowed his name to go upon the ballot, tho politicians say an election by petition, without the aid of a political circle or organization is unknown in the history of Nebraska and is almost an impossibility.

THUMBS DOWN FOR GILBERT

HEAD OF W. C. T. U. URGES SOLID VOTE AGAINST HIM.

Mrs. Lela G. Dyar Says Hitchcock Cannot Be Depended Upon to Support Policies for Which Organization Stands.

"Let every member of the Nebraska Woman's Christian Temperance Union go to the polls on November 7 and cast the ballot that will help retire to private life the man who voted against suffrage when his one vote would have given it to us long ago; who voted against every prohibition measure before the senate until the supplemental prohibition bill came up. This was sure of passage and election time was drawing near and women are not supposed to have good memories."

This was the essage Mrs. Lela G. Dyar of Boone, state president of the W. C. T. U., included in her annual address, delivered before the state convention at the Friday afternoon session. She did not say she was referring to Senator Hitchcock. She did not need to say so. She said in part:

"In his campaign speech in Albion he said prohibition is a settled issue and he is not going to allow it to be discussed, that he was opposed to it when it was an issue, but voted for laws to enforce it. Senate records show that he voted 'No' on the enforcement law. He said further that if attempt comes up to modify the Volstead act to permit sale of light wines and beer he will vote against it. How much dependence can we place in the last statement when the one preceding it was false?

"At one time when a letter from one of our best workers went to him asking his support of a certain measure, he replied that when the bill came up he would 'think' of her Wonder if he really did? Anyway, let us take our cue from that letter and 'think' of him at election time and cast our ballots for one who stands for what we fought for so many years.

"When it comes to principles that touch the home and children we are not partisans, but patriots, and vote for men, not party.

"One candidate has warned us that we need to sleep with one eye open, for the opponents of prohibition are active, but I want to emphasize the fact that I believe it is not time to sleep at all, but to keep both eyes wide open and scanning every nook as well as the horizon, for the nation's laws are at stake. Look closely into the record of every candidate's public life as well as his promises, and if the latter are good but the former questionable, then he is one to remain a private citizen so far as your ballot and mine are concerned.

"We had one shameful problem before us in the action of the United States shipping board in allowing liquor to be sold in American vessels when outside the three mile zone. We do not intend to be silent when our government is violating the prohibition law any more than if it were the foreigner across the alley engaged in bootlegging, and we are delighted to read that Attorney General Daugherty has ruled that we are to have prohibition wherever our flag floats and this means American vessels at sea."

Mrs. Dyar's address included a summary of the work of the organization during the past year in which she told of the ten regional conferences held in January in the state, the institute in Central City under the auspices of national directors, the questionnaires sent out by the organization in conjunction with the anti-saloon league to candidates for nomination, the listing of those who answered satisfactorily, in the July Union Worker, for help in voting at the primary. The headquarters at Epworth was mentioned and the county conventions and institutes held. Messages were sent to congressmen asking their consideration and support of several measures. Reports of law breaking have been sent to the proper officials

The union is enlarging its activity along the line of scientific temperance instruction and urging that prize essay work be taken up in all parts of the state

At the evening session Rev. J. G. Shick of Wayne will give an address, "The Passing of the Uncrowned Queen" Mr Shick knew Frances Willard personally and will tell of his acquaintance with her Harington Sends Warning to Kemalists by Airplane.

ALLIES ARE APPREHENSIVE

Fear It Will Be Difficult to Force Turks to Live Up to Agreements—Early Conference Desired.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13—The Kemalists broke their pledge to the allies today when 4,000 swarmed into the Ismid area of the neutral zone as far as Tapeuran.

The Turks on the eve of the day the armistice is to go into effect, entered the forbidden area at Airan, and penetrated several miles to Tapeuran.

Sir Charles Harington immediately sent a courier by airplane warning the commander of the invaders to withdraw.

This infraction of the agreement led the allies to become apprehensive that they would have much difficulty in forcing the Turks to live up to their agreement.

General Harington was in frequent conference with allied representatives today, pointing out to them the necessity of calling an early permanent conference.

PERMITTED TO SELL STOCK

Beatrice Power Company Needs $100,000 More to Complete Plant at Barneston.

The Beatrice Power company, which is developing a hydro electric plant at Barneston, Gage county, was given permission Friday by the state railway commission to issue $50,000 worth of 8 per cent preferred and a similar amount of common stock for the further financing of the project. It abandoned its request for permission to issue $75,000 bonds.

At the beginning it was estimated that the work could be done for $200,000. Unexpected developments, along with higher prices for labor and material have added to the cost, until it is expected that $375,000 will have gone into the plant before it is ready for business. George W. Steinmeyer, former member of the legislature, is the engineer in charge.

The principal stockholders have been paying the prefered stock interest to date, and these payments will be taken care of later. The company will take the entire output of the Holmesville plant, 1 1-2 million kilowatts at 1 1 2 cents a kilowatt, and this will give it a maximum of four and a half kilowatts for sale. It expects to get between 2 1-2 and 4 cents, dependent on amount to be supplied to the customer. It expects gross earnings yearly of $79,500 and expenses of $48,500. This includes $12,000 a year the commission orders set aside for maintenance and depreciation. The company must make verified statements of expenditures, and it it a condition of the order that past expenditures be reported.

WATCH FIRE DEVOUR SHIP

RESCUED PERSONS TRANSFERRED TO ARMY TRANSPORT.

Latest Wireless Advices Give Position of Blazing City of Honolulu as 600 Miles From Los Angeles.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 13.—Mrs. David L. Crawford, racing with death to the bedside of her aged father, James Loren Mudgett, of this city, has lost the race and does not know it.

She is a tsea on the rescue ship that took off the passengers and crew from the blazing liner City of Honolulu yesterday.

Her father died the night before the flames were discovered on the big ship on which she was a passenger.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Another chapter was written today in the story of the burning of the steamer City of Honolulu when, beginning at 7 a. m. the passengers and crew of the Honolulu were transferred to the army transport Thomas.

At 9:30 the transfer having been completed without casualties or difficulty, aided by clear weather and a calm sea, the Thomas steamed away, bound for San Francisco.

At the same time the freighter West Farrallone, which played the part of the rescue ship late yesterday when it picked from the small boats the passengers and crew members driven by fire from the burning liner, headed westward, bound for India.

Last word by radio was that the Honolulu, still burning, was drifting alone and abandoned, smoke pouring from her and the vessel gradually settling in the water.

The passengers will be landed at San Francisco unless the army transport service diverts the Thomas to San Pedro which is improbable. Estimates were that the Thomas could not reach San Francisco before Sunday.

Radio Stations Busy.

Thruout the night radio stations on the coast were kept busy handling radiograms to friends and relatives of those who had passed safely thru this latest sea disaster. From the trend of these messages it was known that all was well with the survivors and none had been injured or suffered more than discomfort.

The tug Sea Lion and the coast guard Shawnee were added to the list of vessels rushing to the scene today. They left San Francisco last night and will aid in efforts to tow the abandoned, fire gutted hulk of the Honolulu back into port.

A message from the transport Thomas to the army transport service said:

"Arrived at wreck at 1 a. m. and prepared to embark passengers but received word from Farr ne we must wait until daylight. Weather still fine. Passengers are [illegible] women, thirty-five men, 137 crew."

It was signed by Captain Hall of the Thomas.

During the early morning, private messages continued to pour in from the West Farrallone, most of them addressed to relatives and friends and reading "Safe on West Farrallone."

The refugees, jammed into the narrow confines of the freighter which picked them up from life boats late yesterday, thruout the night watched flames devour the palatial steamship on which they were returning from the Hawaiian islands when the fire broke out.

To Plunge Any Moment.

Latest wireless advices give the position of the blazing hulk as some 600 miles southwest of Los Angeles. The fire has reduced the big ship, one of Uncle Sam's fleet of war transports, to a glowing bulk of steel, which seems likely to plunge beneath the waves any moment.

Many passengers on the West Farralone were reported at the point of collapse from nervous strain, but none suffering from exposure or injury. Sleep last night was impossible, messages said, the victims crowding in the boat to the rails. Women and children were given preference in such comforts as the ship provided. Men spent the night on deck, stimulated by rations of hot coffee.

Aboard the Thomas, steaming full speed to the scene, every preparation was being made to succor the refugees. This vessel carries a staff of army surgeons. It is well stocked with food, medical supplies, clothing and beds, and will carry the passengers to San Francisco.

The shipping board announced every effort would be made to tow the Honolulu to port, but this probably will be a hopeless task, as she appears doomed to go to the bottom. The loss is estimated at $2,000,000. Edward L. Doheny's private yacht Casiana is standing by.

The West Farralone, first of the rescue fleet to reach the scene, found the Honolulu blazing from stem to stern when she arrived about 3:30 p. m. yesterday. The passengers and crew were in the boats, a safe distance from the ship, watching her burn. Work of taking them aboard the freighter started at once and proceeded until all were accounted for. Not a life was lost and not one serious injury sustained, according to reports from the rescue craft.

Wireless Operator W. H. Bell's name is aded to the list of radio heroes of the sea by his actions yesterday. He stuck to his key until the flames licked up around him, and sent his final "Goodbye to you all" when the heat had become unbearable.

REJECTED CARNEGIE LOAN

Columbia, Pa., Bank in 1868 Denied Request for $15,000 for Him and Phipps.

COLUMBIA, Pa., Oct. 13.—An officer of the First National bank of Columbia, in digging thru old files today, found a letter written in February of 1868 by a young man who had been a telegraph operator here, but had launched in business for himself.

"My brother and Henry Phipps wish to borrow $15,000 for four months. They'll pay 8 per cent on their joint note, indorsed by me," the letter stated. "If your bank is flush, telegraph me at New York."

The officers turned down the application.

Records indicate, however, that the applicant got the money elsewhere, and used it to purchase the Union Iron mills at Pittsburgh. The mills paid a few thousand per cent on the investment and helped form the foundation of the fortune of the man who swung the deal—Andrew Carnegie.

MODEST HOME OF FIRST WOMAN UNITED STATES SENATOR

Here is the modest home and study of the first woman ever sent to the United States senate, Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Cartersville, "the grand old woman of Georgia," appointed by Governor Hardwick to fill the unexpired term of the late Thomas Watson.

TWO ALLIES DIFFER AGAIN

FRENCH AND ENGLISH DELEGATES WLIL CLASH.

Barthou Receives Instruction to Oppose British Plan for War Debts at Reparations Commission Meeting.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—France and Great Britain, who have just smoothed over their differences in near eastern policy, were at odds again today.

A clash between Sir John Bradbury and M. Barthou was freely predicted in the press and by officialdom when the reparations commission went into session today.

M. Barthou, the French representative, is reported to have received instructions from his government to oppose the plan of the British for dealing with German war debts, which includes the following:

1—Granting of a five-year cash moratorium to Germany.

2—Germany, in lieu of cash payments to meet the obligations by issuing bonds to the allies.

3—These bonds to be guaranteed by the allies and marketed to whoever cares to purchase.

This plan is at variance with the policy of the French who believe that the former enemy country should be made to meet her obligations in cash on the day they fall due.

BLAMES MOVIES AND AUTOS

Chicago Juvenile Judge Declares Speed of Times Causes Girls to Leave Home.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Movies and automobiles are the modern answer to the age-old question, "Why girls leave home?"

Judge Mary Bartelme, of Chicago's juvenile court, declared today that the speed of the times, with youth leading the race, has again raised the proverbial problem for mothers.

"Girls of today are hungry for thrills," Judge Bartelme said. "They crave speed and action—food for their emotions.

"They find it in the movies and the automobile."

Judge Bartelme's answer was prompted by the wholesale reports to Chicago police from mothers whose daughters mysteriously disappeared from home. A greater number of girls are being reported missing to the police than ever before.

Search for many high school girls and working girls, reported missing from home under mysterious circumstances, engaged the efforts of a corps of police and detectives.

Margaret Davis, fourteen, was returned to her home today after having been reported missing since Sunday. She was found on a farm near Roselle, Ill., where she was working disguised as a boy.

"She had probably seen a movie in which the heroine ran away from home disguised as a boy," said Miss Bartelme.

"The modern girl gets a taste of romance in a movie and home no longer holds her interest.

"A girl unaccustomed to the thrills of movie life naturally seeks that sort of thing for herself.

"The automobile is a girl's idea of luxury and a good time.

"Between the movies and the automobile, she finds plenty of reason to be dissatisfied with home.

KNEW HER OWN CHICKENS

Kansas Woman Identifies Thirty-four Out of Flock of One Hundred.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 13.—The ability of Mrs. William Kern, Bonner Springs, Kas., to identify thirty-four of her chickens, in a flock of more than one hundred, caused the arrest of Jerry Hollyfield, well-to-do farmer, who lives near Piper, Kas. Hollyfield is charged with stealing seventy-four chickens from Mrs. Kern.

Mrs. Kern testified that she was able to identify the chickens by certain peculiar markings. Hollyfield denies the charge.

MOVIE NEWS.

The beauties who represented leading cities of the United States in the recent Atlantic City beauty contest are beginning to make their appearance on the screen here and there, not as part of a news reel but in pictures. Georgia Hale, who represented Chicago, will be seen in a Fox production, "The Custard Cup."

Vitagraph is to present the screen version of "The Ninety and Nine" with Colleen Moore, Aggie Herring, Gertrude Astor and others.

Rodolph Valentino, in New York, walks about the streets with a big police dog, and is followed by about 500 men, women and children. He was the only one of numerous stars present at the premiere of Ingram's "Trifling Women" to be applauded. Broadway has seen no such jam of girls outside a theater since Chaplin, Mary and Douglas were there two years ago.

It is suggested that Rupert Hughes is "falling down and worshipping the great god hokum," and that something ought to be done about it.

Henry King is going to Italy to direct Lillian Gish in "The White Sister," and Richard Barthelmess is left directorless, temporarily.

Douglas Fairbanks has been figuring on doing "Monsieur Beaucaire." Richard Barthelmess also wants to do it and is talking over with Fairbanks the possibilities of getting it away from him. Douglas may do "The Virginian" instead.

Warner Brothers are preparing to film "Main Street."

"The Old Homestead" with Theodore Roberts the star, is being received enthusiastically where it has made its appearance on the screen.

MRS. OWEN HEADS D. OF H.

Miss Rose Herrick of Lincoln Made Grand Recorder—Next State Convention Slated for Lincoln.

OMAHA, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Florence D. Owen of York, was reelected grand chief of honor, or state president, of the grand lodge of Degree of Honor of Nebraska at the closing session of the biennial convention.

Other officers elected were: Grand chief of ceremonies, Mrs. Maude King, Carroll; grand recorder, Miss Rose Herrick, Lincoln; (reelected) grand usher, Mrs. Hansine Birk, Grand Island; grand inner watch, Mrs. Fannie Wanzer, Hastings; grand finance committee, short term, Mrs. Adelia Harding, Hebron; long term, Mrs. Jennie Hicks, Omaha; and representative for superior lodge, Mrs. Lena Harre, Norfolk, Dr. Adda Wiley, Ralston, South Omaha, and Mrs. Florence D. Owen, York, Neb.

The seventy-year settlement clause, enabling a member to draw her insurance benefit at the age of seventy years, was passed during the afternoon session. The delegates also adopted a resolution making the national fraternal rates compulsory in all the state lodges. Formerly the lodges might adopt the adequate rates or the national rates at their own option, but of the 275 lodges in the state all but thirty-three had adopted the national rates.

CLAIMS RECOVERY IMPOSSIBLE HERE

Charles Liston, Hit for $7,000 Damages for Alleged Assault on Girl, Insists Law Gives Her No Redress.

In Lincoln county Charles Liston, a wealthy ranchman, was adjudged by a jury to pay $7,000 damages to Blanche M. Bishop, a young woman who alleged that while she was a visitor at the Liston ranch, Liston climbed thru a bedroom window and assaulted her. She had a child. She was in her eighteenth year at the time, within four or five months of eighteen.

Liston vigorously denies the girl's story. She said that when she entered the room she found it had no lock. So she tipped a chair under the door knob. She says that during the night Liston took off the screen and raised the window and entered the room. Liston brought a number of witnesses to testify that because of recent painting operations the window could not be raised above eight inches and that the screen was bolted to the sash.

The girl sued for $25,000 damages, and recovered judgment for $7,000. The court told the jury that the evidence did not support the claim that force was used, but that this was not an element of the case if the jury found that she was under the age when she could legally consent and had been previously chaste.

Liston's attorneys violently attack this instruction. They say that the common law governs actions of this character in the state, and that this forbids recovery where consent is an element of the case. Consent, they allege, destroys all right of action. They argue that this is good law because otherwise the courts would open the door to a flood of damage suits based on relations of couples.

They also claim that while damages may be recovered for physical suffering and mental anguish, there could be none for loss of social standing, as this is the realm of pure guesswork.

MAY APPEAL TO GOVERNOR

County farm bureau presidents interested in the expenditure of the state appropriation of $235,000 to meet federal funds for eradication of bovine tuberculosis and glandered horses contemplate asking Governor McKelvie to release the one-eighth which he is holding back under the budget law for expenditure after the first of next year. The bureau believes the intensive work now being done to wipe out tuberculosis in cattle should be prosecuted this fall while the weather is favorable rather than after the first of the year when winter may prevent efficient work, and that the money should be available this year for that purpose. It is held back under the governor's rule for the purpose of preventing a deficit, but if a proper showing is made it is said he will release the money for immediate use.

CLAIMS O'CONNOR ESTATE

Bridget Sullivan of County Kerry, Ireland, Writes to Hastings, Regarding Property.

HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 13.—A new claimant to the now famous John O'Connor estate has risen in the person of Bridget C. Sullivan of Cahirbullig, Ventry, Dingle, County Kerry, Ireland. She sets forth her claim in simple language in her letter which was addressed to the 'supreme court, Hastings.'

This is what Bridget Sullivan says: 'John O'Connor left a legacy in which I claim to be the nearest heir. John O'Connor's mother was Margaret Sullivan and his father Daniel O'Connor, the deceased man who left the legacy was a first cousin to my father, Maurice P. Sullivan, Cahirbullig. His father died when young and left his wife, the widow, and her son, in charge of her brother, Patrick Sullivan, our grandfather, until they emigrated to America.'

The Lincoln Hi-Y club opened its season Wednesday evening with a banquet and meeting Coach Schulte of the universiti gave a most interesting talk on teh subject "Playing the Game.' MAY DO TRAFFIC DUTY

Plan by Which Boy Scouts Can Aid in Making Lincoln Safe for School Children.

Chief of Police Peter Johnstone has asked Willard Yates, president of the Lincoln boy scouts, to have members of that organization at school buildings of the city each day when school is dismissed to do traffic duty. The matter will be taken up by Mr. Yates with W. Kent, scout executive, and M. C. Leffler, superintendent of Lincoln schools.

The plan is to have a number of boy scouts in uniform in front of every school building at dismissal time and anyone who does not drive slow and cautiously while passing a building will be reported to the police department who will see that the offender is prosecuted.

These steps are being taken to avoid any repitition of an accident similar to Wednesday's occurence when a school boy died as a result of being hit by a car near a school building Chief Johnstone will probably instruct the boys in handling traffic if they are put on duty.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, tho, at home, is mussy and troublesome. At little cost, you can buy at any drug store the ready-to use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, and look years younger.—Adv.

The first hour of each evening Dr. Devine will lecture and the second hour will be for discussion.

In connection with the institute Dr. Devine will hold several conferences during the day with individuals or groups who may wish to consult with him upon special problems. The registration fee for the institute is $2.50. Arrangements may be made for registering by calling C. E. Prevey at the Social Welfare society, B2175.

In addition to the institute Dr. Devine will give the following addresses during the week:

Monday noon at the Social Service club at the Grand hotel.

Tuesday at 11 a. m., University convocation.

Tuesday noon at the Rotary club at the Lincoln hotel.

Wednesday noon, Pathfinders club at the Grand hotel.

Wednesday 4 p. m. at the Y. W. C. A.

Thursday noon Lions club at the chamber of commerce.

Friday noon Kiwanis club at the chamber of commerce.

Arrangements may be made for reservation at the Social Service club luncheon by calling the secretary, Miss Toland, at the juvenile court office, B2172.

There is probably no greater authority on general social work than Dr. Devine, Mr. Prevey says, and his coming to Lincoln is a rare opportunity for those interested in the study of applied sociology. Dr. Devine was special representative of the American Red cross in charge of relief in San Francisco after the great fire of 1906, and in Dayton, Ohio, after the storm and flood of 1913. In 1916 he spent six months in Russia as special agent of the American embassy. During 1917-18 he was in charge of the bureau of relief and refugees of the American Red cross in France. He was president of the national conference of charities and correction in 1906; and president of one of the sections of the international congress on tuberculosis which met in Washington in 1908.

THE WAY DENNY AND TILLY ANT WERE CURED OF ONE BAD HABIT.

DENNY and Tilly Ant were two funny little ants. They lived with their mama and a hundred little brothers and sisters in a big ant-hill, down in the meadow, right near a lovely, great big lake.

They were never happier, these two, than when discussing the faults or ugly looks of their neighbors.

One day, when they should have been watching their cows, as they were sent out from the ant-hill to do, they wandered down near the lake, and seeing the water very low, they climbed along the weeds and grasses, out to a lovely lily-pad island, and there began to romp and play.

"Well!" Tilly laughed, as she caught sight of her tiny features in the water under the lily-pad island. "I never knew before how good-looking I really am. Take a look at your reflection, Denny."

"Of course," laughed Denny. "We're all good-looking—the whole set of us. I'd really feel terrible if any of us were ugly."

"Hum!" snickered Tilly Ant. "Did you notice the dragon-fly that just sailed over us? Talk about ugliness! She is the most dreadful-looking one I have seen this summer. Goodness, gracious me, but I'm glad I'm not as ugly as she is! Look at that jaw of hers!"

"But maybe she's not nearly as bad as she looks," laughed her brother, Denny. "You know, as Mother has often told us, Tilly, one must be good to be pretty. Yet I don't believe I've ever seen a creature quite as ugly in the face as she is."

"Pooh!" exclaimed Tilly Ant. "You can't fool me! No one as ugly as that dragon-fly could be good, no matter how hard she might try. No, sir, I'll bet anything her disposition is just as horrid as her face. Um! I'm glad I'm not that homely. What a funny thing it is to find any one as ugly as she is, with such pretty wings."

"It's a wonder that you could even give her credit for that much," chirped Cheery Cricket, as he lighted on the lily-pad island beside the two ants. "If we were all just one-half as good as we thought we were, what a lovely world this would be—but we're not," and with a merry chirp he jumped to the overhanging weeds on which Denny and Tilly had crawled over to the lily-pad island, and from there to the shore.

The overhanging weed straightened up, and when Denny and Tilly thought it time to return to their cows, they found to their surprise that their only way of getting back to the shore was cut off.

Tilly Ant ran first to one side of the lily-pad island, then to the other, wringing her feelers, while Denny Ant, boy-like, tried to figure out just how they would get back home.

A big butterfly ship sailed over, but it paid no attention to the little ants' cries for help, and sped off across the meadows.

The last rays of the setting sun glimmered across the sky when Denny looked up to see the very dragon-fly they had been discussing perched on a cat-tail above them.

"O please, Mrs. Dragon-fly," he called loudly. "Please take us across the water to the shore. We won't know our way home if it grows dark."

Mrs. Dragon-fly smiled and sailed down to the lily-pad island, and invited the two ants to climb upon her back, and when they were settled she sailed across the water and meadows, right to their ant-hill and there she let them down again.

Well, you can imagine the thoughts that swept through Denny's and Tilly's heads. They went after their cows without a word, but you can believe it or not, that was the last time they ever judged their neighbors by their looks.

VERY NEWEST AFTERNOON FROCKS

Crepes of Various Hues and Textures Are Again in Favor for Fall Wear

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

CREPES—all the lovely new crepe fabrics as well as crepe de chine—have become a recognized part of the fall wardrobe. Time was when serges, with other soft, woolen materials for dressy occasions were sufficient. But these last few seasons crepes have played an increasingly important part, and it has become almost a fashion axiom that the well-assembled wardrobe for each season must have its crepe.

At the left, smart steel nailheads thickly stud a frock of black crepe. The bodice resembles armor in its thick covering of the nailheads, repeated again at the skirt border. A red rose adorns the girdle.

This use of nailheads on certain parts of the frock is favored. A stunning black velvet evening model studs them thickly about the girdle, extending several inches up on the bodice and down on the skirt.

The other model shown is of brown crepe de chine with irregular insets of brown lace. These skirt insets reveal alluring glimpses of the silver-cloth petticoat beneath. The sleeves show an interesting detail in their slits placed high at the shoulders.

YOUR HEALT

Why Good Morals M Really Depend on Good

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City

DR. COPELAND

A FEW days ago a Detroit school teacher said to me "I believe morals and food are closely related."

This is an interesting statement.

Who knows how many robberies have been committed by persons who had their first impulse to steal in order to get food or money to provide it?

Think of Victor Hugo's Jean Valjean, and how he was chased from pillar to post because of the theft of a loaf of bread to feed the starving child.

What associations are connected with the suppers which begin at midnight and end a little while before daylight!

Many a grouchy, cranky, crabbed, hateful individual is the sort of man he is because of a disordered stomach. He has dyspepsia because his choice of food is bad.

Sleeplessness is due many times to the absorption of poisons from long-standing constipation. This faulty intestinal action is the result of wrong eating. The sleeplessness brings on nervousness, irritability and possibly homicidal tendency.

Mental processes are determined by the circulation and nourishment of the brain and nervous system. Just as the body suffers from the lack of proper food, the brain suffers, and usually to a greater extent than the muscles do. It is readily conceivable that the action of the brain may be perverted from its normal function, and that moral lapses may result in consequence.

I am inclined to believe the wise teacher is right. Undoubtedly there is an important relationship between food and morals.

There can be no doubt that what you put into your stomach has a lot to do with your mental and moral welfare.

Certainly there is incentive enough to good eating in the improved physical health which proper food brings about.

Everybody should know the first principles of feeding. They should be taught in every school and in every home. If morals depend on right food, we have additional reason to live wisely and eat correctly.

Answers to Health Questions

A. R. Q—I was examined by a specialist and was told that he would probably have to operate to straighten the turbinate hones of my nose. Do you think it necessary to operate for this trouble?

A—The specialist who has examined you is better able to decide this than anybody else.

* * *

J. B. V. Q—Will you please tell me the cause of black lines before my eyes? When a person speaks to me in a loud tone of voice, my heart beats rapidly. Will you kindly advise me regarding this condition?

A—Your symptoms may be due to indigestion, eyestrain or excessive nervousness. Consult your physician for an examination and treatment.

* * *

ANXIOUS. Q—The veins on the back of my hands are thick and swollen. Will you kindly give me a remedy for this condition?

A—The condition you mention is very common with many persons. These veins are superficial and consequently show very plainly.

* * *

MRS. W. W. Q—Will you kindly tell me what causes my arm and leg to become numb?

A—This is probably due to a nerve condition. It would be advisable to consult your physician for an examination and he will prescribe proper treatment.

READER. Q—Will you please tell me whether it is injurious to wear underwear that has been washed in —— or —— water?

A—No, it is not injurious to wear underwear washed in the preparations you mention.

* * *

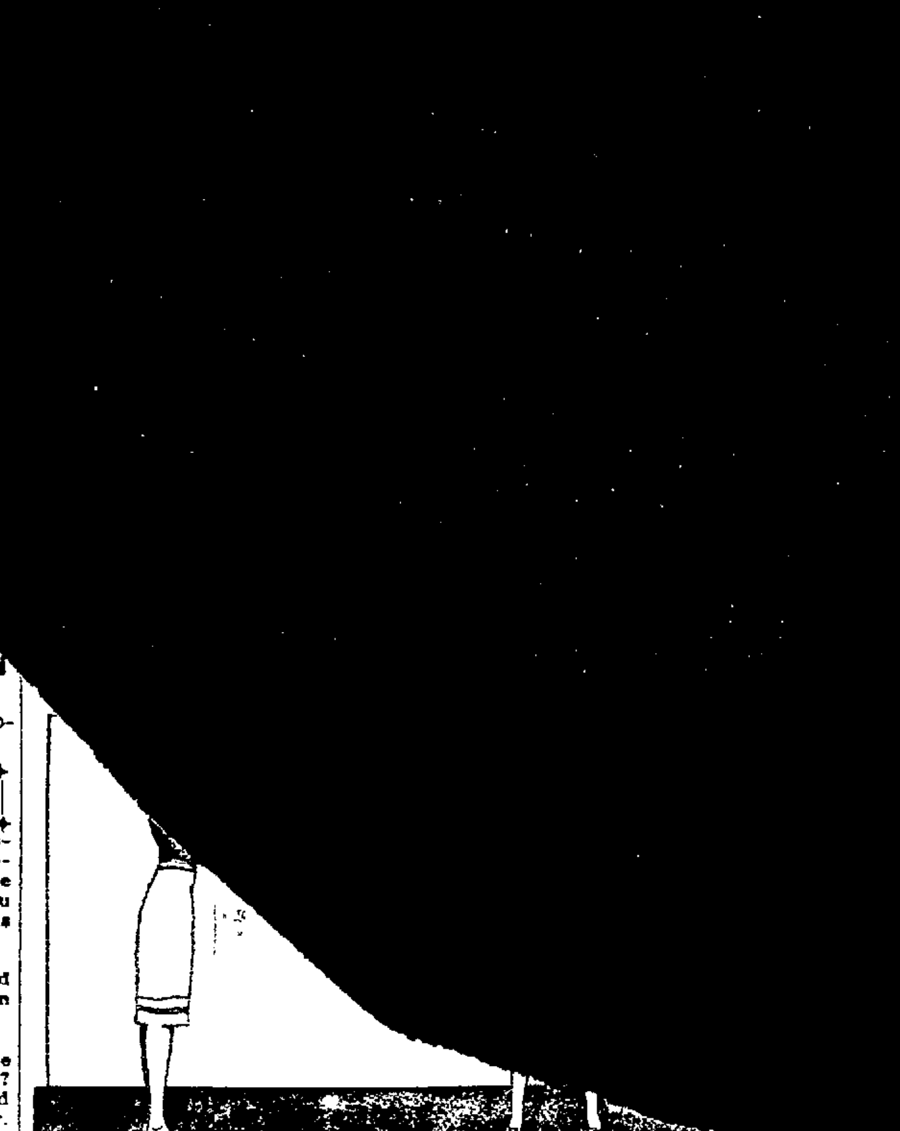

A. M. Q—I am 20 years old and am 5 feet 1 inch in height. I would like to increase my height. Will you please tell me whether this can be done?

A—You should join some club or Y. M. C. A. and place yourself under the direction of a physical instructor, who will outline a course of exercises that might be helpful to you. At your age I doubt if you can increase your height very much.

UNCERTAIN. Q—On warm days my nose gets clogged up, and it is hard to breathe. Please advise me what I should do.

A—You should have your nose examined by a specialist to find out whether any deformity exists which needs to be corrected.

"And one can become used to a thing so quickly," she assured me. "I hop up now, and am standing before the open window, going through my exercises, before I realize it. You see, I make up my mind the night before and so there's no deciding to be done once I'm awake in the morning."

This deciding ahead of time is half the secret. I want to tell those of you who find living up to your good intentions a struggle. Make a firm decision, once and for all, at the outset of your exercising campaign, and then give it no more thought than that required in the execution.

Stand at your open window, chest out, head well up and arms stretched straight out before you, with palms down.

Now, twisting your body from the waist, swing your arms as far to the left as you can, still holding them stretched out straight from the shoulders.

Swing as far to the right as you can, again twisting your waist around as far as possible, without moving your position. Keep this up for twenty counts. You will find it easy to do and far-reaching in its beneficial results.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT The "Vanishing" Home

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

WOMEN are spoiled," says Mary Austin, the California novelist. "A few spankings or a good vigorous shake or two would do the average woman a whole lot of good."

"Men are spoiled," says Miss Gail Laughlin, also a Californian. "They've been spoiled for generations. Their mothers spoil them and their sisters spoil them, and their sweethearts spoil them and their wives spoil them, and then their daughters spoil them and the result is that the average man is the most selfish, egotistical, vain thing alive."

"What's become of feminine modesty?" wails a sad sister in a current magazine. "Where are the young girls, such as we used to have—'shy,' was there ever such a word, and what did it ever mean? Of all the bold, brazen creatures give me a modern high-school girl."

"What's happened to the home?" sobs yet another critic of our modern life. "Home? Why, there isn't any such thing! A woman who is willing to live in a three-room apartment and warm up delicatessen meals thinks herself almost too domestic."

"Jazz, extravagance, late hours, fine clothes, fast motor cars, powder and paint—these are the things that are important in the lives of our young people today," mourns a blind leader of the blind.

It's really discouraging, isn't it?

A Glory of Love

I got to feeling dreadfully about it.

And then I read some modern books all about psycho-analysis and the sub-conscious mind which never seems to think of anything decent or honest, or wholesome or kind or human, and I began almost to wish that I had been born a dog or a cat, or a bird, or something just so I wouldn't have to bear the disgrace of belonging to the degenerate human family.

"I'll go downtown and get some more of these new books," I thought. "No matter how blue they make me, I might as well face the truth and be done with it."

And just as I started to enter the store I saw something blue and something white and something pink, right at the door in the very midst of the crowd.

And the blue was a sailor's uniform and the white was the sailor's cap, and pink was the color of the costume of the baby he was carrying in his arms—such a fat, roly-poly of a baby! Such chubby little fat wrists—why, the crease in each was so deep it was like a tight ribbon! Such dimpled fists! Such engaging elbows! And of all the foolish little round heads, nodding and nid-nodding in its pink bonnet. Heavy? That baby must have been a burden, but he didn't think so, the young fellow in the sailor suit.

He loved the feel of the fat, hot little body so close to his heart, and every once in a while he just had to turn his face so that smooth little pink cheek touched his, and his eyes fairly danced with pride and delight—he wouldn't have changed places with any king or any millionaire in the world!

How Much We Talk

Yes, there she was—the little wife—all in a pretty little frock with a neat little hat and a pair of impudent little shoes tied with a knot that was so knowing that it fairly winked at you, in the most innocent way in the world—and her arms were full of bundles and her hair wasn't as neat as it might be, and she looked the least little bit tired and she would never have taken a prize at a beauty show in the world—not unless you saw her smile when she caught sight of the sailor and the baby—and then maybe——

And off they went together, the three of them, so happy that they fairly radiated joy.

And I didn't buy the books about the everlasting misery and degradation of the human heart. Somehow I didn't feel in tune for them—after I'd seen the man and the woman and the baby.

What a lot we do talk and how little what we keep saying seems to mean—sometimes—after all.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

Five Dainties for the Convalescent.

IT is always difficult to find delicacies that the convalescent will relish when, after the nurse's departure, the home cook is left with this responsibility. Patients naturally tire of the various broths and soft foods given them during their seriously-ill days, and long for something dainty and appetizing, often tempting the cook to disregard the doctor's orders even at the risk of a relapse. But it is best to be very careful. Here are a few dishes that are generally wholesome and approved by the doctor if served in moderate quantity:

Broiled Sweetbreads

Select a fresh pair of sweetbreads, wash them and put on in cold, salted water to boil. Boil twenty minutes, then drop into cold water to firm them, free them from fibre, and slice in medium slices. Dust the breads with a little salt and a wee bit of pepper, then lay them on a buttered broiler and broil over a clear fire, or under the gas flame until they are a delicate brown. Place the breads on delicately-made toast, butter lightly, garnish with parsley and lemon quarters and serve hot.

Lamb Steak.

Lamb steak is really the largest shoulder chop, cut rather thick, and with the bone removed. Butter a small earthen dish, lay a few thin slices of onion and a few chopped celery leaves in the centre, place the steak on them, after trussing it like a filet and binding a thin slice of bacon around it, put more leaves and onion over the top, then dot it with butter and dust it with pepper and salt. Cover the dish with a pan and let it cook for five or ten minutes, then brush off the leaves and turn the chop and cook, uncovered, until done. Serve on a hot dish after removing all the seasoning agents and garnish with fresh watercress. A carefully-baked potato is often allowed with the steak.

Chicken Jelly a la Mode.

Select a large, tender chicken, have the sinews removed from the legs, singe, clean and joint, then put into a pot with three pints of water, a sliced onion, and a few stalks of celery. Cover and cook until the chicken is very tender, then lift it with a skimmer, strip the meat from the bones and throw them back into the broth, season, boil down and add a tablespoonful of gelatine dissolved in a little cold water. Boil up, then strain into a mould wet with cold water. When cool and the grease rises, remove the grease, then set to chill. When ready to serve, cut a slice of the jelly, lay on a piece of freshly-made toast, and turn over it a little cream sauce, which will heat the jelly sufficiently without melting it. Garnish with parsley. The white meat of the chicken may be creamed on toast for another meal, and the dark meat ... salad for the family.

Apple Rounds

Make a good apple sauce and put it through a sieve to free it from all lumps. Make fresh toast rounds, butter them and spread them thickly with the apple sauce. Sprinkle thickly with dry crumbs and put in the oven long enough to brown lightly. Serve hot with cream.

Oysters in Ramekins

Dry off six freshly opened oysters on a linen towel then dip them in melted butter and roll them in seasoned ... crumbs. Place them in a buttered ramekin and pour in two or three tablespoonfuls of cream. Cook eight minutes, then put an egg on top of each and let them stand in the oven long enough ... Dust a little salt and pepper ... the oysters and serve hot.

WHERE CUPID FLIES WHEN A SAUCER BREAKS.

WHEN an engagement is being negotiated in China each servant and every other person around the house is admonished to take great care and not to break a saucer or a bowl. Because if they did, no matter how promising the romance looked the negotiations would cease at once. The Chinese believe that to break a saucer

The "Middle Woman" Negotiates.

... to shatter a bowl ... this time is ... most ... If the Chinese girl is ready ... when drinking her tea ... or when ... in the bowl ... to the floor. Oftentimes she is not sure whether she is in love or not, because she has not seen her husband-to-be.

The "middle woman" does the negotiating, and gets paid for this. For instance, a wealthy old Chinese hears that a neighbor has a charming daughter, Ming Toy, who is very beautiful with her eyebrows plucked and arched lines drawn in their place, and painted red lips and powdered cheeks. And perhaps she is delightfully fat-faced and with her thick hair hanging in great braids, and feet which are only about two and one-half inches long, after the fashion of old, which now is fast vanishing.

The wealthy man learns that this girl is not yet betrothed, and sends for the "middle woman," offering her a large sum of money if she can convince Ming Toy's father that he is the proper husband for his daughter.

The "middle woman" often has to bribe and plead and plead and bribe during several visits, for it is improper for the girl's parent to admit too readily that Ming Toy wants a wealthy husband.

It is when he has given his consent and Ming Toy is on her way to the wedding the "middle woman" leads the way. She guides Ming Toy to the wedding feast, bribing her along the way and coaxing her to hurry to her intended husband. The father and mother of the Chinese girl do not go to the wedding because to do so would look meddlesome according to the old Chinese way of thinking.

But—suppose Ming Toy has already seen a young man with whom she has fallen in love and does not wish ... husband with money ... of youth and love? We wonder ... times when a broken saucer ... found during ... negotiations ... Instantly ... are stopped ...

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

The Reason Tom Chester Had to Give Up the Task.

LILLIAN'S scheme worked perfectly. But a few yards the other side of the entrance to the wood road, where we were sure the strange limousine was concealed, was a glade-like opening into the woods, not ambitious enough to be called a road, but wide enough just beyond its curving entrance to conceal a car.

Dicky and I had parked our car there out of sight of the road many times when we wished to take a tramp through our favorite wooded hills a little distance away, and I knew just the turn to make to land the car safely out of sight. With a wide-flung hand to signal my father behind us, I turned the car into the glade, hearing the prearranged steady tooting of the horn of my father's car as I shut off the ignition and the car slid gently to a standstill.

For several minutes after the noise of the engines and the horn had died away we sat breathlessly waiting for any indication from the road behind us that the occupants of the limousine concealed in the wood road had suspected our ruse.

Then as no sounds but those common to the woods at night reached our ears, Tom Chester descended slowly and with evident pain from the seat beside me to the road below, and opened the tonneau door with the evident intention of taking out his bicycle, which Dr. Pettit and my father had loaded into the car before starting. I scrambled down quickly beside him, and in spite of his fiercely-whispered protests, managed to take upon myself the greater part of the lifting of the bicycle to the ground. I saw the intrepid young chap stagger as he put his hand upon the bicycle ready to mount it, and I moved ... quickly and put a ... hand ... his arm off my hand, not angrily, but as if he were carried out of himself by the indomitable will which was lashing his body to action.

"Yes I can," he whispered hoarsely, and with an effort which I could see taxed every ounce of his strength he mounted the wheel, made a few zigzagging strokes toward the road and fell heavily, with his bicycle covering him.

"I—Must—Go."

I ran frantically toward him, and found, as I had feared, that he was unconscious. My flashlight showed that one leg was doubled under him, and something about the posture made me afraid that it was broken. When I had lifted the bicycle from him, and attempted to straighten his body, my fears were realized, for he gave a quick, sharp moan.

"My leg," he groaned, then as he returned to full consciousness, he rose on one elbow, his face contorted with pain, and then fell back against me powerless to move. I lowered him gently to the ground, ran to the car, got the robe and the seat cushions, dragged them back beside him, and improvised a couch. Then I bent over the half-conscious boy and spoke softly but distinctly.

"I must get you on these cushions before I leave you," I said distinctly. "Try to help me all you can, so that I will not hurt your leg more than necessary."

"I—must—go," was all the answer I could get from him. So setting my teeth, I ... him by the shoulders and managed to get him over on the ...

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY, OCT. 14.

While this day's sidereal movements presage difficulties and hazards in the realm of business and finance, they assist to the happiest and most auspicious of circumstances in domestic, social, artistic and romantic affairs. In the latter the brilliant Venus rules with most gracious force, but in the commonplace and work-a-day activities there is a sinister sway. Moneys are in jeopardy, and it may be difficult to make much satisfactory progress under the afflicting position of Mercury. Uranus warns against change or travel.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter many difficulties in business and finance, but they are assured pleasant and propitious happenings in all other affairs. They may well shun important changes or journeys unless wise forethought decides they are best. A child born on this day although it will be accomplished and affectionate, may be inclined to be irresponsible, and also careless in money matters unless well trained in early life.

AUBURN, Neb., Oct. 13.—William Jennings Bryan was greeted by good sized crowds in his speeches in this vicinity. He devoted his attention chiefly to condemnation of the republican national administration, the tariff law and the national revenue act.

He also attacked portions of the Esch-Cummins law.

Bryan spoke at Plattsmouth, Union and Nebraska City before coming to Auburn. Today he is continuing his campaign thru the first district and will wind up the day at Beatrice.

KIDNAPING SPOILED PLANS OF JENKINS

Husband of Woman Chained by Fred Brown Had Hoped to Effect Reconciliation With Her That Day.

OMAHA, Oct. 13.—Kidnaping of Mrs. Jean Jenkins by Fred Brown, "the Benson bat" spoiled plans for a reconciliation with her divorced husband, Roy Jenkins, the husband testified in Brown's trial here today.

"I had a date with my former wife at Krugs park that night," Jenkins testified. "I hoped to be able to talk her into returning to me, but the kidnaping spoiled it all."

W. E. Boyd, who was also chained by Brown when he answered signals from Katheryn McMaman and came to the rescue of the two women, was the principal witness today.

Boyd said when he saw the girl's signals he started for the house. Miss McMaman then signalled for him to go back. As he started away Brown came from behind the house and struck him with a hammer, he said.

Boyd started to grapple with the "bad man" but Brown whipped out two revolvers and forced him to enter the shack.

Still covering him with one gun, Brown with his free hand chained Boyd to the walk of the shack.

"It's either you or me" Brown said, Boyd testified. "Brown then stripped the shack of all tools except a big screw driver he overlooked, and drove away in his car.

"I succeeded in knocking down the screw driver from the wall, pulled the staples with it, and released myself.

"As I started from the shack I heard one of the girls call from the dungeon: 'Please help us.'"

"I assured them I would bring help and then telephoned for the officers."

Coach Shulte Knows Nothing of His Reported Move to Havard University

NEBRASKA MENTOR DENIES KNOWLEDGE

Says He Knows Nothing About Reported Offer From Eastern College—Came Here in 1919 From Missouri.

"I don't know anything about it," was Coach Henry F "Indian" Schulte's reply Friday morning when shown a telegram emanating from Boston, Mass, asking for an interview regarding his possible move to Harvard. "If anything develops along that line it will surely develop there, not here," he added.

Asked directly if he had had an offer from the eastern college, Coach Schulte again said, "I don't know anything about it."

Coach Schulte came to Nebraska from Missouri university in 1919. He is now assistant athletic director. He is considered the best line coach who ever directed the efforts of Cornhusker candidates for a position on that part of a Scarlet and Cream football team

His greatest achievements have been with track men. He turned out the team which won Missouri Valley honors last year and under his tutelage men who had no idea they could run have been brought out.

His pentathlon idea which has gained great favor in many states has developed Nebraska high school athletes and he is now working on a state cross country run. Not only is Coach Schulte recognized for his coaching ability but his ability to "shoot square" with all his men.

H. S. Roller, Kansas Driver, Does Half Mile in 34 Seconds. Which Is Best Time Made.

MISKE BOUT TO RAISE CURTAIN

Meeting With Gibbons to Be Among Important of Season.

Fall's fight card promises—and it promises to be one of the most important heavyweight bouts of the season—is scheduled for Friday night when Billy Miske and Tommy Gibbons, rival St. Paul fighters, are to meet over a fifteen-round route.

Eyes of Jack Dempsey, Harry Wills and possibly Battling Siki, world's light heavyweight champion of Senegal will be turned towards Friday night's mill, in view of a possible opponent for any or all being found in the victor.

The bout will mark the beginning of an elimination contest among big boys for the doubtful privilege of meeting Dempsey

The St Paul boys have met three times Each contest was of the no-decision order, but popular verdict favored Gibbons

This time Miske is the favorite He has put on weight and has been beating some good boys while Gibbons seems, to many of his supporters, to have slipped back a little. The slightly longer route—they used to meet in ten-round affairs—is considered advantageous to Miske.

"IRISH" MEUSEL SCORING FIRST HOMER OF WORLD'S SERIES FOR GIANTS IN SECOND GAME

JONES' MEN PICKED TO WIN

Contest Between Yale and Iowa Is That of Inspiration Against Tradition.

Out of the west, not unlike young Lochinvars of old, come eleven or more husky Hawkeye gridiron warriors to New Haven to test the mettle of old Eli in the year's big intersectional football battle

East and west are stirred over the contest as never before in mid-season Fair weather is promised for the battle, cracking football and such as a late Indian summer has not yet provided, and 70,000 spectators are expected for the contest

The Hall Iowa game Saturday has called soccer and time football hopes, and fans from all parts of the east to New Haven Some have come from the Mississippi valley scene of Iowa's conference victories over western conference opponents, last year.

It will be the first game against tradition when the big teams meet The Hawkeye eleven will be carrying the west's challenge to eastern claims of football supremacy Old Eli will be dug in to defend the claim

Picking a winner is easy. Only a tie can baffle the prophets. Coach Jones' men should triumph. Brother Howard directs the Iowa team, and Brother Tad the Yale eleven, so it will be all in the family, however it comes out. Out in Excelle, O, where the Jones boys hail from, Mother Jones is all excited, no less the townfolk, who are split fifty-fifty, the entire hundred of them.

Yale will be severely handicapped by probable absence of Doc Jordan, her captain, and two of her best generals, Becket and O'Hearn. The blue line up is otherwise upset by early season injuries, but Tad Jones will have two bright young men, hitherto untried in a big game, upon whom he can rely. Ed Green, whose work at tackle has been the bright spot of Eli line play this year, will oppose a Hawkeye veteran, and Quaille will be at the other tackle position while Young Neidlinger at quarter is expected to prove a star of the game.

Capt. Gordon Locke of Iowa will be the hardest man to stop that Yale has tackled since George Owen plowed up the Bulldog line last fall.

The kickoff will be at 2:30 p. m.

WALT MASON

The Doomed Seven.

My seven cousins used to drive before my cottage door, and they seemed very much alive, but now they are no more James Henry's car was trimmed with brass, and blithely it would flee, he stepped too fiercely on the gas and wound it round a tree. John drove a car with faulty brakes—he would not fix the same; we gathered up, with garden rakes, the fragments of his frame. Ned was a glad and smiling weight; where is that springald now? He ran without his lamps one night, and bumped against a cow. Charles tried to cross a railway track before a rushing train; there were nine fractures in his back, his head was rent in twain. And Joseph swung around a curve at fifty miles an hour; his monument you will observe hard by yon old gray tower. Adolphus lit a match to see if he had gasoline, and by the mere and on the lea he is no longer seen. Theophilus was prone to race with other speeding boats, and o'er his quiet resting place now graze the village goats. No more their chugging vans I hear; no more their joyous whoops; oh, other men have cousins dead, but mine have looped the loops

BUEL PLEADING DISMISSED

Court Questions Whether Worth O. Buel Has Any Standing in Nomination Case.

The petition for a restraining order barring County Clerk J. B. Morgan from placing the name of Joseph Cameron on the progressive ballot for election to the office of county commissioner from the third district was dismissed Friday morning by District Judge Stewart.

The attorney representing Mr Buel intervenor, asked a bill of exceptions, declaring that in spite of the judge's decision to the contrary, there is "equity" in the pleading The court had questioned whether Mr. Buel, as merely a member of the progressive party, had any standing in court

The difficulty arose out of the fact that Clinton J. Mitchell was defeated on the republican ticket for nomination for the commissionership by Joseph Cameron. Each candidate for nomination received one progressive vote. The canvassing board placed Mr Cameron in nomination It is alleged that the act was illegal, as the statute requires that the canvassing board should cast lots when there is a tie.

WESLEYAN PLAYS PEN TEAM

METHODISTS READY FOR CLASH WITH DENVER UNIVERSITY.

Win From Warden Fenton's Footballers by Score of 12 to 6—New Tackle in Lineup.

Nebraska Wesleyan is ready for Denver university and the game carded for Johnson field Saturday afternoon is attracting followers from considerable distance. Denver ranks as one of the two best teams in the Rocky mountain conference and when Wesleyan met them on the Colorado gridiron last year they won handily from the Nebraska Methodists.

In preparing for the Denver game, Coach McCandless sent his squad against Warden Fenton's team Thursday. The yellow and brown withdrew with the best end of a 12 to 6 count. Rather than take a chance on an injury Coach McCandless did not permit any of his regulars to remain in the game long. Both teams exhibited a good brand of footbal.

One new face will be in the Wesleyan lineup when the opening whistle sounds. Baller will start at right tackle. Coach McCandless has announced the following lineup: Captain Harrell, left end: Riart, left tackle: Gregg left guard: Parkinson, center: Drake, right guard: Baller, right tackle; Hurlburt, right end: Neil, left half: Gembler, right half: Alabaster, quarterback; and Donahue, fulback.

Earl Johnson will referee the game, Bill Day will umpire and Roy Cowell will serve as head lineman.

FREMONT DEFEATS WAHOO

Comes Out on Top in Hard-Earned Victory Thursday by a Score of 7 to 6.

FREMONT, Neb., Oct. 12.—Fremont high scored a hard earned victory over Wahoo by one lone point, with the final score 7 to 6. Altho Fremont was superior in gaining ground, bad fumbles and many penalties for rough work prevented the black and gold from crossing the line. Fremont secured its touchdown within the first seven minutes of play on straight football, when Evans carried the ball over on an end run. Evans later made the kick.

In the final quarter Wahoo recovered one of Fremont's many fumbles on Fremont's 30-yard line, the first play after Wahoo's punt was received. Alden Wahoo quarter, on a fake cross buck, went twenty yards for a touchdown. P. Cunningham tried the placement kick for the goal and would have tied the score, but the ball failed to touch the ground before it was booted.

Time and again Fremont carried the oval within striking distance only to lose it on a fumble or have the Wahoo lads tighten up enough to hold the Fremonters for downs. In the final quarter Fremont was forced to give up the ball on Wahoo's five-yard line.

The lineup:

Fremont—		—Wahoo
Gray	le	Hamilton
Thompson	lt	P. Cunningham
Horton	lg	Thompson
Graham	c	Barry
Peterson	rg	Ruck
Corry	rt	Harris
Daniels	re	Williams
Winkleman	q	Alden
Evans	rh	Epperson
Balduff	lh	McCord
Chambers	fb	W. Cunningham

Referee—Coach Schulte, Nebraska; umpire—Bob Sass, Columbus; lineman—Wynne, Midland. Time of quarters—12 minutes. Touchdowns—Fremont, Evans; Wahoo, Alden. Substitutions: Fremont—Hand for Horton, Cottrell for Daniels, J. Graham for Winkleman, Morrow for Balduff, Whitfield for Thompson.

UNDEFEATED TEAMS TO MEET

Beatrice and Alliance Game Attracts Fans for Many Miles.

BEATRICE, Neb., Oct. 12.—The meeting of two undefeated teams, Alliance and Beatrice, here Friday afternoon is attracting many football followers from this section. The two teams are about equal in weight.

Lincoln was the last team to defeat Bish Hughes' Beatricians while Alliance has not met with a reverse since early in 1921 when Ansley won a game from them. The lineups of the two teams which will probably start the game:

Alliance—	Position.	—Beatrice.
Wykoff	le	Appelget
Herman	lt	(capt.) Layton
Gribble	lg	Arterburn
Nolan	c	Scott
Rust	rg	Cook
[illegible]	rt	VanLieu

Ieder	qb	Purdy
Miller (capt.)	lh	Beckwith
[illegible]	rh	Gish
Stoner	fb	Geisbrecht

Officials—Towle, Nebraska, referee, Schulte, Michigan, umpire. Pegle, Nebraska, head linesman.

The Alliance team stopped in Lincoln Thursday afternoon en route to Beatrice. They worked out on Nebraska field.

TWO TEAMS READY FOR CLASH

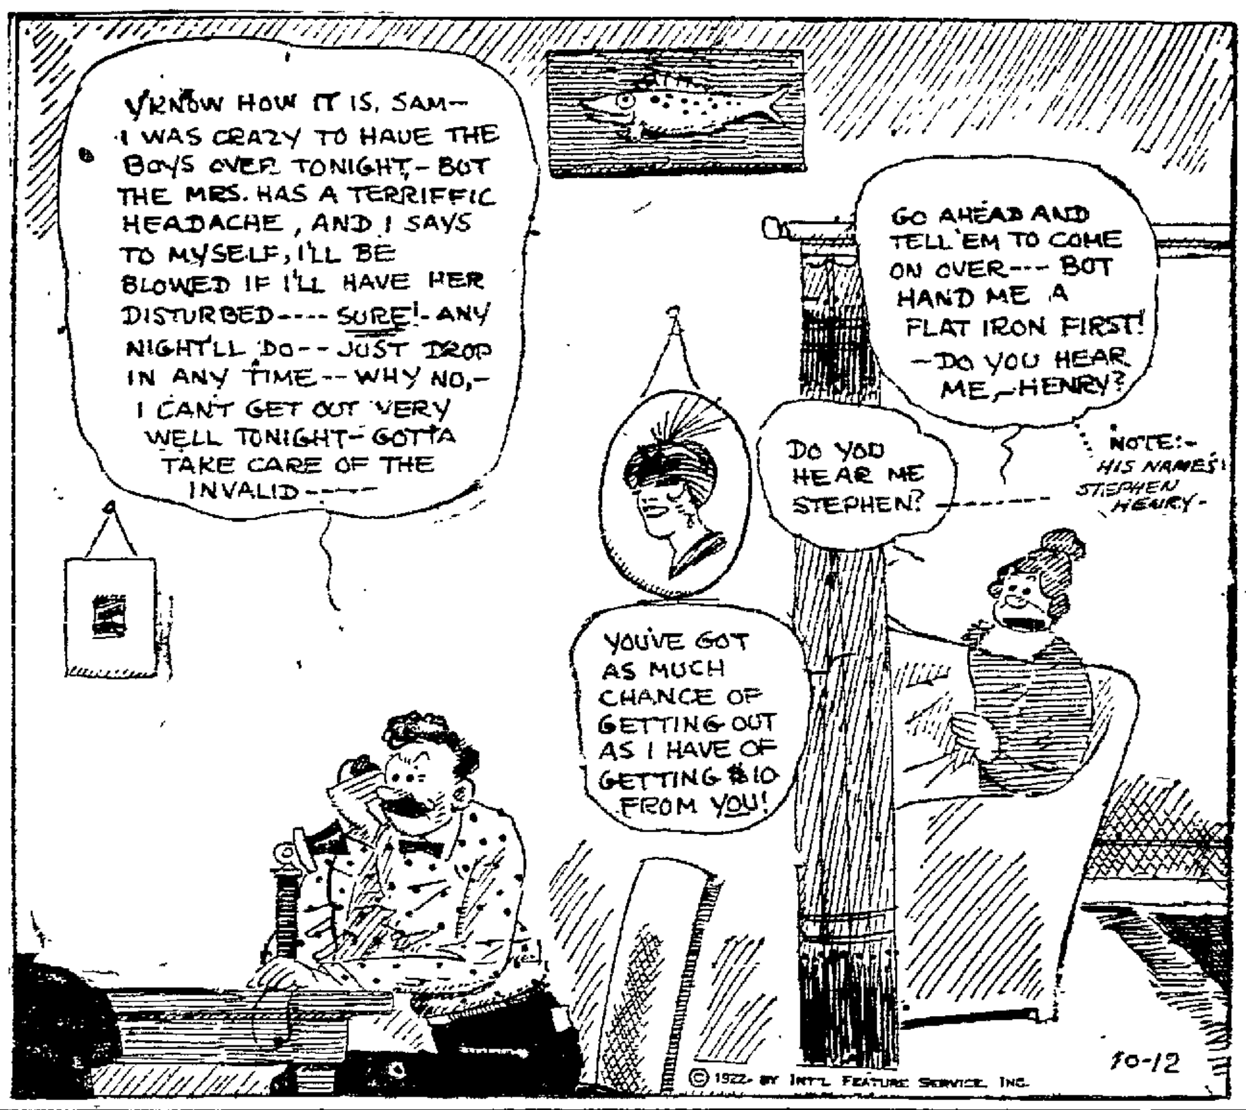

Coach Kahm Makes Some Changes in Uni Place Lineup.

The University Place high school football team will play the Sutton team Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock on Johnson field in Uni Place. The young Methodists have been doing considerable changing around since their last game. Captain Bauder has been shifted from center to an end position and Gass who has been playing guard will take his place at center. Bauder has been changed from his position at quarterback to the other end, and [illegible] who has been at end will take his place at quarter. Roehl will be placed at a tackle and Haynes at a guard.

Prospects in the back field shot higher when Kinding a new man was stationed at a half back. Yetter also on the bench for several days with an injury will probably be able to play the other half. In the previous game he has played fulback but it is thought that Warren will be able to be in the game again, and take his regular place at fulback.

Coach Folsom's Nebraska City gridsters and Coach Smith's Havelock high team go against each other Friday afternoon at Havelock. The game will be called at 3:30 p. m. Wesleyan Holds Olympics.

The annual freshman-sophmore olympics will be held at Nebraska Wesleyan university Friday afternoon on the Johnson field at 1 o'clock. All kinds of athletic events are staged between the two classes to determine the superiority. The freshmen have blossomed out in their green caps and ribbons while the sophmores are flying the red and white. The classes are quite evenly matched having almost the same number of boys in each class.

After the olympics the freshmen and juniors will celebrate together while the sophmores and the seniors will do likewise. All of the events will be of interest but the one which seems to be the greater importance is the flag rush. The sophmores will defend the flag while the freshman make the attack.

The events will be as follows:
100-yard dash.
220-yard dash.
440-yard dash.
880-yard dash.
Lightweight wrestling.
Heavyweight wrestling.
Broad jump.
High jump.
Football kick.
Baseball throw.
Tug-of-war.
Half-mile relay.
Flag rush.

Gene Sarazen, national open golf champion, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last Sunday, will be playing golf again within six weeks, his doctors announced.

FORTY WINNING PLAYS IN FOOTBALL

By MAJOR EARNEST GRAVES, U. S. Army, Retired and JOHN J. McEWAN, Head Line Coach at West Point

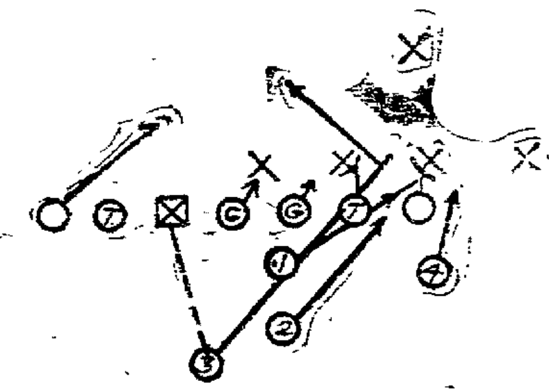

Play No. 6.

There is nothing peculiar or extraordinary about this play. It is one of the simplest plays in the game and under a slightly different form used to be a standard play in the big schools before the days of the forward pass.

It is one of the best plays that can be devised, for after all no matter how complicated the formation or theory of attack, there are only so many avenues of attack. This is one of the strongest.

tackle. The tackle is the man who must be eliminated from this play.

The No. 2 back heads out against the end and screens him from the play. If the defensive end is playing the waiting game he will usually not bother this play much, because the No. 8 back runs on a dead line over the defensive tackle's position and gets away before the end can get him. If the defensive end is playing the smashing game he will often wreck

OLIPHANT-OFF TACKLE

The left end goes thru to the defensive backs immediately.

The left tackle after closing to the center to prevent anyone coming thru in time to interrupt the play behind the line of scrimmage goes thru to the defensive backs.

The center must hold on this play else the No. 8 back will be tackled by a lineman coming thru between the center and the guard. He can best do this by closing over against the right guard, at the same time that he charges.

The left guard must with the center insure that the play be not interrupted behind the line of scrimmage by a lineman coming thru.

The right guard and the right tackle have the task of blocking off the defensive guard. This must be done or the play will not succeed. They can best do this in the following way: The right tackle hits the guard first and turns him in to the guard who takes him on the outside and keeps him from getting into the play.

The right end blocks the tackle out.

The No. 4 back working with the end helps to get the tackle.

The No. 1 back also crashes on the this play, but an end run will cure him.

The No. 8 back receives the ball from the center and runs on a straight line as indicated. When he gets to the line of scrimmage he immediately reverses the field as shown and runs to the left.

This is not a circling play but a direct smash, the idea being to crush the tackle and allow the No. 8 back to get to the line free.

It requires a strong running back. Oliphant, the famous all-American back from Purdue and West Point, one of the greatest players the game has seen, preferred this running play to any other.

PLAYED TRICK ON YALE

To Meet Real Competition Saturday Instead of Workouts Other Big Teams Face.

(By Jackson V. Scholz.)

The gridiron hors d'oeuvre has been duly served and more or less relished in eastern football circles. The big schools are now awaiting the second course which, it is hoped, will consist of some palatable species of fish without many bones. Bones at this time of the year are to be strictly avoided because a broken tooth or so is a serious handicap when the meat course is served later in the season.

All but Yale. Poor Yale. Somebody played a rather unsportsmanlike trick on the wearers of the blue by sneaking a couple of handfuls of a pepper into their consomme and the first two swallows were somewhat of a surprise. Not only that, but they are now faced with a man-sized steak in the shape of the Iowa eleven. It's hardly fair when the other members of the big three are only beginning to dine.

Harvard will mix things with Bowdoin Saturday which will probably be no more than a short workout for the crimson team.

MRS. JONES NEUTRAL.

EXCELLO, O., Oct. 13—Mrs. T. A. Jones, mother of Tad and Howard Jones, coaches of the Yale and Iowa fotball teams refused to take sides in Saturday's intersectional classic.

"I hope its a scoreles tie," she said.

Her husband said he hoped Howard's Iowans would win.

"It will do Howard so much good."

Princeton is a bit apprehensive over Saturday's engagement with Colgate. The Colgate eleven under the coaching of Dick Harlow, former Penn State star, may have absorbed a brand of football which may prove very annoying to the Tigers in their present stage of development.

West Point Beats Stanton.

WEST POINT, Neb., Oct. 12.—The West Point high school football squad defeated the Stanton boys in a game played here Thursday, score 25 to 0. This is West Point's fourth victory this season. Stanton showed considerable improvement over a few weeks ago when West Point played them at Stanton.

ISLANDERS BEAT ANTELOPES

Kearney Unable to Score and Final Count Is 13 to 0—Score in First and Last Periods.

KEARNEY, Neb., Oct. 12.—The Kearney Antelopes were unable to score against Grand Island college in their game here Thursday, which terminated in a 13 to 0 score. Sink, of Grand Island went thru the local line for thirty yards and a touchdown in the second quarter. The visitors put over the other counter in the final quarter with line smashes. Kearney was within a foot of the Grand Island goal on two occasions, but were unable to put the ball over.

ELMWOOD BEATS COLLEGE VIEW

Second Team Used During Second Half After Score Is 24 to 0.

ELMWOOD, Neb., Oct. 12.—Elmwood high school won from College View here Wednesday, 31 to 6. The score at the end of the half was 24 to 0 in favor of the locals. The second string was sent in and College View scored its lone counter on an intercepted pass. Bethany plays here Friday, October 20.

INSISTS WIFE IS EQUAL

MRS. HARVEY W. WILEY UPHOLDS RIGHT TO SMOKE.

She Thinks It an Abominable Habit, But If Men May, Women May, Too, She Declares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, wife of the former chief of the United States bureau of chemistry, thinks that smoking is abominable. Yet she upholds the right of a girl to smoke. She is fighting for the equality of women in all things. She She is a militant feminist. She is the mother of two boys, eight and ten years old, and it is her greatest ambition that they take a leading part in Christianizing the world. But she believes in the basic right of all individuals to shape their own destinies, and she believes that girls as well as boys are individuals.

Just now she is one of the leaders in an organization, the object of which is to remove the last remaining discriminations against women in American homes.

The organization is the home-makers' council of the national woman's party. This party is composed of women who are not aiming to enter professions, but who want the right to continue as homemakers on an equal footing with men.

"I had supposed," Mrs. Wiley was told by the correspondent "that women were rather more of a factor in American homes than men."

"They are possibly more important," she answered, "but their rights in many states are still almost negligible. I am not speaking merely of their property rights, altho the legal discriminations against them in this respect make it impossible in many places for them to function as they should. I talked with a woman from the south the other day. She is 'happily' married and very much in love with her husband, but he doesn't know that she is a person, and the could not make him think so except by nagging him or starting a fight. Because legally she is not a person. She had an estate before she was married valued at $100,000. She had planned for years to devote this land to a specific charitable purpose. The other day her husband came home to dinner and, nonchalantly announced that he had sold it. He had a right to under the law. In that state, in spite of the nineteenth amendment, a married woman is still very much of a slave. Her work, her resources and her lifelong ambitions count for nothing.

Says Husband Has Advantage.

"But even in states where property rights seem to be equal, it doesn't necessarily follow that women have achieved equality. In these states a woman may leave her home, enter a trade or profession and have full say as to what she shall do with her salary. Her husband can't take that—I mean the money which she has earned outside the home. But how about the money she has earned inside the home? If the man dies, the woman can command her legal share in his estate. But if he lives, she can't even command a salary. On a large percentage of the American farms today it is still the ridiculous practice for the wife to ask her husband for money with which to buy a new hat.

"To manage any enterprise properly the manager must have a very definite idea of the financial resources at hand. A home-maker should have either a stated allowance or a definite percentage of her husband's income."

It is not any personal discontent which has brought Mrs. Wiley into the feminist movement. She is there because she has strong convictions concerning things from which she does not personally suffer. That women should have the right to vote was one of her lifelong convictions

Education is at present the main reliance of the home-makers' council. There is no talk as yet of a strike of farmers' wives or of any dramatic assertion of woman's equality. From Mrs. Wiley's standpoint at least the movement does not contain the slightest element of antagonism to men.

"Our object," she said, "is to remove the elements of discord from the home. Marriage between equals must, in its very nature, be a continual compromise. If harmony is to be achieved, it must be thru complete equality or not at all. So long as rights are undetermined they will be fought for. The harmony based on authority has passed forever. Our real aim is more than an assertion of individual rights. It is the assertion of the most sacred right known to human history—the right of a man and a woman to become completely united in love.

Cause of Discord.

"Did you ever stop to think," Mrs. Wiley added, "that millions of homes today are cursed with discord simply because the personality of the mother has been suppressed? Take almost any case of a completely dominated woman and you will find a woman who is making life unbearable. She quits being a person and becomes a professional mother for life. She babies her children. They are her life and she sees her life departing from her. She struggles to hold them as babies when they should be developing manly characteristics instead. She undermines their self-reliance. It is up to them either to rebel and break her heart or to succumb and to go down in utter uselessness. Either way, such a mother is hopeless.

"What we should aim at," Mrs. Wiley continued, "is not to 'free' woman from the great work of bearing and rearing children but to save them from destroying themselves in the process. There is no reason why any normal person's life should end at fifty. A woman at fifty should be looking ahead."

ASK PRAYERS FOR RAIN.

NEWARK, Oct. 13—Farmers in Cape May county, New Jersey, have petitioned all churches to pray for rain to avert forest fires.

BRIGHT LIGHTS TO AID POOR.

BERLIN, Oct. 13—Berlin's bright lights are to be used as a source of revenue to provide money for the city's poor this winter. The price of the commodity will be increased to raise a fund of 200,000,000 marks.

WOMEN AND MEDICINE

In Europe, years ago, a woman named Hildegarde wrote a notable book on medicinal plants. In those days the men were too busy bothering about dogmas of religion and medicine, and the study of herbs was thought beneath their notice.

It was the women, however, who mostly conducted the hospitals and cared for the sick, and thus they learned much of great value. They let the men fight out the questions of theories.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared almost fifty years ago by a woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, did then, and does now, relieve the ailments peculiar to women. It is a vegetable compound and of great value for this purpose. This is proven day after day, and in your own neighborhood, by grateful women who have used it.

MOUNTBATTEN FELT AT HOME

Thought Chicagoans Put on Fog for Special Benefit of Him and Bride.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—"My word! what a beautiful London fog you have here. Was this arranged to make us feel at home? American ingenuity! What men!"

Lord Mountbatten, twenty-two years old, British peer, cousin of the prince of Wales, here on his wedding tour, affected surprise when told by reporters that he had made a name for himself by telling Judge Landis at the riotous New York game that the crowd was "handing him the bird."

"American slang, y'know, is rich. Topping I call it. I heard a good one at a dance in New York. A chap asked my wife if he could 'park his chin on her shoulder,' meaning could he have the next dawnce. Very good, what?

"Judge Landis? Ripping old companion. He didn't seem to mind it when the crowd at the game was giving him the bird. Paid no attention to the hoots and bally jeers they flung at him. Quite cool, regular old snuffer, the judge."

"What does your husband think of American flappers?" was asked of Lady Mountbatten, who was Miss Edwina Ashley, England's richest heiress.

"'Pon my soul," she exclaimed, with determination, "he hasn't had a chance to meet any and I'll see that he odesn't."

The Mountbattens are on their way to California. They will visit Hollywood.

"Must be topping to see the bally actors leaping from precipices and airships and all that," said Lord Mountbatten. "Jolly well worth seeing, what?"

The Stars and Stripes In the Near East

More than one hundred years ago the followers of Mohammed in the Mediterranean were forced to lower their Crescent in defeat before the American flag; to-day the largest flag afloat in Smyrna is reported to be the same Stars and Stripes, while the finest destroyers in the United States Navy have crossed the Atlantic to join other American ships near the scene of the Turkish victories.

What the United States will do is a question which looms large on three continents. In Asia Minor there is joy that America will give food and shelter; in Europe there is hope that America will join the Conference which will finally settle the status of Thrace and the Straits; in the United States the correspondents say that the Government is impressed by the great surge of anti-Turkish feeling among its citizens.

A "hands-off" policy has been officially announced with a statement of the Administration's approval of the Allied desire to keep the Straits free and the little peoples protected. Does this go far enough to suit the American people?

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, October 14th, gives expression to public opinion of every shade in answer to that question, and shows what the Government might do, and perhaps what it will do. The article is illustrated with several half-tones and cartoons.

PROSPERITY TAKES PART

ORATORY NOT TO WIN ELECTION, ADAMS DECLARES.

Campaign Already Success Because of Returning Good Times, Chairman of Republican National Committee Says.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The facts of returning prosperity and not the empty oratory or argument of the campaigner will win the congressional election this year, John T Adams, chairman of the republican national committee declared today in sizing up the political situation from a G. O. P. standpoint.

In fact, Adams said, the election already has been won because of returning prosperity.

"The outcome," said Adams, "is not in doubt. The only question remaining is the size of the republican majority in the senate and the house. From all indications these will be the majorities of normal republican years."

Reminded that everybody expected him to say something like that, and that there was nothing new or startling in such a pre-election prediction, Adams replied that this is not a campaign marked by startling political developments. It is a campaign of reason and not of emotion, he said, and the people refuse to be swayed by catch phrases.

Asked to outline the basis for his great confidence, Adams said:

"Business conditions are getting better every day. They have been steadily improving for months. These conditions reflect what is taking place in industrial centers and in agricultural sections.

"Industries are increasing their output, many of them working at the limit of capacity. Labor is in great demand at good wages.

"Agriculture is in far better shape than it was a year ago. The credit situation thruout the agricultural districts is good. Production costs are lower and prices for farm products higher.

"It therefore takes no argument or campaign oratory to convince wage earners that times are better than they were when the republican administration came into power."

Democratic opposition, Adams said, is once more based upon a catch phrase—"the do-nothing congress"—which he declared "is as misleading as "he kept us out of war.' "

The chairman was asked his opinion of the reason for the widespread public political apathy. He smiled as tho to say, "that's easy," and replied:

"This is not a demonstrative campaign, because the people have made up their minds that their judgment was good when they placed their confidence in the Harding administration. Now they want to see that administration's work carried on and completed."

CONFESSION MAY CLEAR HALL-MILLS MURDERS

Pearl Bahmer & Raymond Schneider.

Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, wealthy pastor of the fashionable Church of St. John the Evangelist, and Mrs. Eleanor Rheinhardt Mills, his choir leader, of New Brunswick, N. J., were killed by mistake for Pearl Bahmer, a fifteen-year-old schoolgirl, and her step father, Nicholas Bahmer, a saloonkeeper, according to the first statement of Raymond Schneider. He later admitted he had falsified when he said Clifford Hayes did the killing.

MERGER HEARINGS WILL BE RESUMED

Interstate Commerce Commission Announces Consideration of Rail Consolidation to Take Place Soon.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The interstate commerce commission today announced that hearings on the question of consolidation of the railroad properties of the United States into a limited number of systems will be resumed here November 17 when Commissioner Hall and Examiner Healy will receive evidence on the proposed consolidation of railway lines in the northwest into two systems, to be known as the "Burlington-Northern Pacific," and the "Milwaukee-Great Northern."

Carriers involved in the Burlington-Northern Pacific are the C., B & Q., the Northren Pacific, Chicago Great Western, Minneapolis and St. Louis and the Spokane, Portland and Seattle.

Lines entering into the Milwaukee-Great Northern combination are the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Great Northern; Chicago, Terre Haute and Southeastern; Duluth and Iron Range; Duluth, Missabe and Northern; Greenbay and Western and the Butte, Anaconda and Pacific.

Similar hearings still may be held later in the west at which the far western roads will be given an opportunity to submit additional evidence.

A New Kind of Commission.

A pan-economic commission will be something of a novelty. Pan-American and similar phrases are familiar. it has remained for Japanese chambers of commerce to propose a pan-economic body.

Apparently, the idea is, not that the commission should inquire into everything economic, but that it should be very comprehensive in its membership, including government officials and experts representing all phases of Japanese business activity. The purpose will be to draft plans for economic improvement in Japan, to lay before the government. High prices cause concern in Japan, and an "interim boom" which is thought to have spent its force is about to be followed by economy in all directions.—The Nation's Business

TRADING LIFE IS HARD ONE

CUTTEN SAYS ROLE OF FARMER TO BE CHOSEN.

J. Ogden Armour Refuses to Give Federal Trade Commission Information About Board of Trade Deals.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—J. Ogden Armour, packer and grain dealer, today declined to give the federal trade commission, investigating the grain market, information regarding his deals on the Chicago board of trade.

Armour refused to answer all questions asked by board members.

Alfred Austrian, attorney for Armour, stated that he had advised the witness not to answer because he did not have full information regarding the deals.

"Members of the office force have the books which show the deals, and the commission has those books under investigation now," Austrian said.

Testifying before the federal trade commission in the probe of speculation on the board of trade, Arthur W. Cutten and E. F. Rosenbaum declared that the life of a farmer was to be chosen to that of a grain trader

Cutten described himself as a manufacturer and a farmer, altho he held more than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat during the May squeeze. He said he was a city man but later went to the farm

Rosenbaum told the commission that he came to the city when he was nineteen.

"If you were nineteen again would you do the same thing or would you stay on the farm?" he was asked

"Well, I don't know," he replied. "I haven't the health I would have if I was a farmer."

"And you wouldn't have the bankroll you now have if you were a farmer," Victor Murdock, acting chairman of the board, interposed.

NEW ANGLE IN MURDER CASE

BREAK IN HALL-MILLS ROMANCE LAST SUMMER.

Woman Believed to Have Replaced Mrs. Mills Temporarily in Rector's Affections, Is Now Suspected.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 13. There was a break in the alleged romance of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, the sexton's wife, about three months ago When this fact came to light today, a woman, believed to have filled the gap and to have been friendly with the pastor while Mrs. Mills was recovering from an operation, was sought as a possible suspect in the murder of the couple.

The woman, towards whom three avenues of investigation turned, may have become enraged at resumption of the preacher's alleged love affair with the choir singer, it was believed

Or a man, involved in this newly bared angle of the tragedy and now sought by the authorities, may be placed under suspicion.

What appear to be a brand new field of investigation has been opened up A statement by James Mills, husband of the murdered woman, that his wife was ill, operated upon, and convalescent over a considerable period of time this summer, may have pointed the way.

The investigators have turned their backs upon the unfortunate little trio of feeble minded characters—Raymond Schneider, Pearl Bahmer and her father Nick, who still, however, remain in jail.

This Laxative Works Fine on Old People

Thousands have kept themselves healthy with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

ADVANCING age with its subdued ambitions and strivings could be made very happy if only good health accompanied it, and the basis of good health, as everyone learns upon reaching the age of 60, is the regular daily movement of the bowels. If it can be effected through the food you eat, the water you drink and the exercise you take, so much the better. But if nature will not operate it must be assisted or sickness will follow. Neglected constipation causes the blood pressure to go up 28 per cent, and that is the forerunner of hardening of the arteries. It makes rheumatism and gout worse, too.

The ideal constipation remedy for people of advancing years is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is gentle and mild, and does not cramp or gripe. It is a mistake to think you need a violent salt or powder or pill, calomel, coal-tar drugs and such things. They purge and weaken you, and their reaction tends to make you more constipated than before.

Now try the milder method. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does not lose its good effect with repeated use, and increased doses are unnecessary. Mrs. E. M. Burgess of Enfield, N. C., who is 73, keeps herself in good health with it, and Mr. Charles Chorman of Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y., wasted fifteen years and considerable money on other remedies before finding steady relief with Syrup Pepsin.

Use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself the next time you suffer from constipation, biliousness, headache, sleeplessness, indigestion, piles or night cramps. Many thousands of elderly people use nothing else, and it costs them less than a cent a dose. Druggists have sold it successfully for 30 years, and it is the most widely bought family laxative in the world.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

K. OF C. CELEBRATE THEIR FESTIVAL DAY

Fourth Degree Initiation Work Concluded With Banquet at Lincoln Hotel and Afterward a Formal Dance.

A five course banquet, at the Lincoln hotel and formal dance at the Knights of Columbus hall concluded the class initiation day of the Knights of Columbus Thursday evening. About one hundred candidates, from all parts of the state, were initiated into the work of the fourth degree of the Knights of Columbus, the highest degree in the order, during the afternoon. The banquet at the Lincoln followed in their honor at seven o'clock.

At the close of an interesting program of toasts and music the Knights, and their ladies, adjourned to the hall, where their dance was held. The six-piece Louisiana Ragadors furnished music, both at the hotel and at the dance that followed.

George H. Corcoran, master fourth degree of York, had charge of the program. He offered a toast to the presidents of the United States. All of the 250 quest joined in the toast. The Rt. Rev. Bishop Charles J. O'Reilly, of the South Platte Diocese, responded to the chairman, and gave a short welcome to the Knights and and their ladies. The Bishop, who has been a knight of Columbus thirty-one years, congratulated the new candidates of the order. He stated that he had never seen the work so well carried thru as the initiation services which he had witnessed during the afternoon.

"God directed Columbus to America," he said. "He sent him to America with Christianity. It is now the mission of the Knights to carry on his work. We have fought, and will always fight to a finish petty attacks on our great order. We will fight the ku klux klan out of existence."

William J. McNichols, of Lexington, who is the state deputy of the order, responded with a short talk. He said that he has traveled over the entire state in the past two years, putting on degree work and visiting the state councils, and that he was of the opinion that Nebraska stood foremost among the councils of the union.

Professor C. Movius gave two classical vocal selections. He was accompanied by Mrs. E. A. Becker on the piano. Professor Movius responded to an encore with a selection from Mozart.

"There is nothing the matter with America, the government, or our flag. They are all right. The matter is within ourselves. It is that little ever-present germ of selfishness that is the cause of so much trouble," said E. G. Dunn, of Mason City, the principal speaker. Mr. Dunn is a prominent lawyer and politician in Iowa, and is well known in Nebraska. He spoke on Columbianism.

"The duty of Columbianism," explained Mr. Dunn, "is one of unselfish service to humanity. Buy your flowers, and shed your tears while the folks are still alive. Give your neighbor a boost now and then. Don't wait until he is dead. Find your little niche in the world, and eliminate selfishness by rising above it.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

Dr. Warren S. Thompson, who was graduated from Nebraska Wesleyan university in 1917, addressed the Wesleyan students at convocation, Thursday morning, October 12. Dr. Thompson is director of research on the scripps foundation at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio. He was formerly professor of rural sociology at Cornell university. Chancellor I. B. Schreckengast introduced the speaker, who reviewed briefly his college days in Nebraska.

Workmen on the capitol foundation labored all day Thursday as usual regardless of the fact that it was a legal holiday in Nebraska known as Columbus day. State offices were closed for the day at noon but State Treasurer Dan B. Cropsey did not open his office in the morning. Because banks observe the entire day the state treasurer did likewise. The custom of keeping the state treasury office closed all day on every legal holiday was inaugurated by George E. Hall when he was state treasurer.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

One hundred and five members and guests of the Lincoln branch of the Nebraska educational association met for a 6 o'clock dinner Thursday evening at the Lincoln hotel. The tables were beautifully decorated with baskets of bittersweet and autumn leaves and there were tall vases of red carnations to complete the decorations. One minute speeches were given by Superintendent M. C. Lefler, Dr. A. L. Hallquest, Dr. H. B. Alexander, President W. H. Morton, Miss Mary Mellish and Miss Sarah Muir. A word of greeting was received from the past president of the association, Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle in which she expressed the wish that the association might instill in the minds of the boys and girls of Nebraska, broader and truer standards of ideals in right living. The president of the association, Miss Bell Ryan of Omaha, sent regrets that she could not be with the club members but felt it her duty to remain with the home folks. She asked that each member make it her business to acquaint every teacher in the state of Nebraska with the spirit, transactions and goals of the organization, thereby lifting the membership from six thousand five hundred members to ten thousand. Mrs. May Morley presided in the absence of the president. Members of the committees included the following ladies: Menu committee, Mrs. Beatrice F. ANOTHER CONVICT ESCAPED THURSDAY

Harry McGinnis Slipped Away From Reformatory Early in the Morning—No Trace of Him Yet Found.

Harry McGinnis, twenty-seven years old, Douglas county man, who was sentenced to the state reformatory from one to four years, on the charge of robbery, escaped from that institution early Thursday morning. Thursday night no trace of the escaped inmate had been found.

According to the authorities McGinnis made his get-away while working on a night shift of a repair gang that was employed in improving water facilities on the grounds. The convicts and another inmate were working together installing a new pipe from a recently dug well to the boiler rooms, when McGinnis disappeared. The second inmate did not escape, and according to the authorities, knew nothing of the plans of McGinnis.

The old well at the reformatory was being repaired and a new well had been constructed. A ditch had been dug from the new well to the boiler rooms of the building in order to lay pipes from the well to the boilers. It is supposed by authorities that he made his escape thru this ditch.

McGinnis is an Omaha man and was received at the reformatory September 2. He is about five feet seven and one-half inches tall. He has dark brown hair and blue eyes. He carries a bullet wound on the inside of his right leg.

ITALIAN SOCIETY BANQUET

Christopher Columbus Club Holds Its Annual Celebration at the Lincoln Hotel.

The annual banquet of the Christopher Columbus Italian society was held at the Lincoln hotel at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. About 100 people were present.

Micheal Indovina was the toastmaster. After a six-course dinner, the toastmaster called upon a number of speakers. Ex-Governor John H. Morehead, of Falls City, gave an eulogy upon the accomplishments of Columbus. He traced, in a brief manner, the progress of America and the United States since 1492, when the three little ships from Genoa touched the shores of the western hemisphere.

Mr. Morehead paid a glowing tribute to the Italians who have since followed Columbus to these shores "Not Italians, but good substantial American citizens now," said Mr. Morehead.

"The people who have come to America from the southern European country comprise some of our best Americans now. They are progressive and they are thrifty, and they are assets to the community."

Judge Morning responded to the toastmaster and spoke briefly of the country's change since 1492. Judge Stewart made a short talk. E. G. Maggi, president of the club, reviewed the history of it, telling of the plans for the future and the need for its existence.

Stove Explodes and Burns House Before Rescue Can Be Made of David Eakin Sleeping in Upper Room.

GRAND ISLAND, Oct. 12.—David Eakin, old and respected citizen of Central City, was burned to death and Mrs. Stevens was seriously and Mr. Stevens painfully injured in a fire at Central City caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove. Eakin, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and two children and Mr. and Mrs. William Grigor, all lived in the caretaker's lodge of Riverside park. Mrs. Stevens was taken ill during the night. Mr. Stevens arose to heat some water when the stove exploded, immediately setting fire to the entire kitchen. It was impossible to rescue the old gentleman who occupied a room on the upper floor. Mr. Grigor was slightly burned while rescuing the other members of the sleeping household.

CENTRAL CITY, Neb., Oct. 13.—David Eakin, old and respected citizen of this city was burned to death at the caretaker's home at River Side park where he resided with his niece and family, at an early hour this morning.

William Gregor had just recently been appointed caretaker at the park and had removed his family together with Mr. Eakin to this new home. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stephens, to whom a daughter who lived but twelve hours had been born two days earlier, were also residents of the park house. Mr. Stephens arose at the hour of 2 a. m. to prepare a cup of tea for his wife and a gasoline stove which he had lighted exploded throwing flames in all directions. The women and children were rescued thru a window but Mr. Eakin, who was sleeping in an upstairs room apparently failed to hear their cries to come to the window and when a ladder was secured and Mr. Gregor went to his rescue the fire had gained such headway as to make entrance impossible. Mr. and Mrs. Gregor received severe burns and Mrs. Stephens is in a nervous state of collapse.

CHURCH UNION IS FAVORED BY MEETING

Congregational Conference at Norfolk Goes on Record for Bringing Such State About Evangelical Churches.

NORFOLK, Neb., Oct. 13.—Union with the Presbyterians and other leading Evangelical churches of the United States was decided upon at the close of the sixty-sixth meeting of the Nebraska Congregational church late Thursday evening. The action was practically unanimous, the conference taking its inspiration from addresses delivered by Rev. W. W. Bolt of Lincoln and Rev. F. G. Smith of Omaha, who spoke on divided world at home and abroad, and the recommendation address by Dr. John Andrew Holmes of Lincoln, who spoke on a united church.

Dr. Holmes was a member of the committee which met in Philadelphia some years ago and launched the union church movement. The resolution passed at the closing business session of the conference here reads as follows: "Resolved, That the Nebraska conference of Congregational churches and ministers at its annual meeting held at Norfolk on October 12, 1922, records its approval of the movement toward an organized union among the leading Evangelical churches of the United States of America as set forth in the plan of union endorsed by the national council of 1921 and express its willingness to commit to the national council of 1923 the adjustment of any essential details which the future may require." The resolution was presented by Dr. Holmes after he had delivered his address and the action of the conference followed.

DAMAGE AMOUNTS TO THOUSANDS

Horses, Grain and Buildings on Plattsmouth Farm Burns.

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb, Oct 13.—A large barn and granary on the farm of Grover Parriott, five miles northwest of this city, was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon with a loss that will mount into thousands of dollars. Besides the building which was completely destroyed, Mr. Parriott had eight head of valuable horses burned to death in the barn. One was rescued but was so badly burned that it was necessary to kill it. There were also 700 bushels of oats, 50 bushels of seed wheat and 200 bales of hay destroyed in the fire. Sparks from the burning barn caught grass and weeds in the yard and threatened for a time to destroy the farm residence but the heroic work of neighbors saved the house.

MISS PYRTLE ON CITIZENSHIP

Gives Main Address of Program at McCook Thursday.

M'COOK, Neb., Oct. 13.—"American Citizenship" was the topic of the Thursday morning program of the Nebraska state teachers' association at McCook. The address was given by Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle, non-political candidate for state superintendent. Miss Pyrtle said Americanization should mean more than teaching the English language to the foreign born It should mean getting the best standards of living and thinking to all native born and foreign born.

The influence of the teacher and leader which means most is that subtle influence which is determined by the viewpoint or philosophy in life held by the teacher—hence the value of proper leadership.

Miss Pyrtle was the speaker guest at an 8 o'clock breakfast given by over fifty school women of the convention.

TALKS ON DOANE COLLEGE

President Tells Congregationalists of Progress.

NORFOLK, Neb., Oct. 13—John N. Bennett, president of Doane college at Crete, Neb., told the Congregational convention here that the attendance at that college this year has broken all records. The freshman class is becoming smaller indicating students are remaining the full course. Only 59 per cent of the students at Doane, he said, are from Congregational families. Dr. A. H. Bissell in charge of the $300,000 Doane endowment campaign stated that $25,000 is to be raised to provide a pastor's home and Congregational student center at the Nebraska state university.

The conference adopted resolutions to promote and build a greater Doane college adequate to meet the need for trained Christian leadership.

Took Total of Fourteen Ribbons.

YORK, Neb., Oct. 13.—George J. Dimig, proprietor of Red Rose farm, located one and one-half miles southwest of this city, returned home form Peoria, Ill., where he had on exhibition at the national swine show a display of Duroc Jersey hogs. He took a total of fourteen ribbons with thirteen hogs. Constructor, the champion boar who won first prize was two years old last spring and stands forty-four inches in height; weighs 1010 pounds. This hog was bred by Mr. Dimig. It is a fact that at the state fair this fall Constructor was awarded only second prize in the grand champion class. He was not shown in Kansas, but a company of his sisters and pet were shown there and came home with twenty-six ribbons. Mr. Dimig turned down an offer of $5,000 for the champion hog, but valued him worth more than that in his own herd

Oil Drilling at Wymore.

WYMORE, Neb., Oct. 13.—Interest is being revived here in resuming the oil drilling on the Hamilton farm two miles northeast of Wymore. About two years ago promoters named Duff and Patterson worked enthusiasm among the citizens and farmers in this vicinity and after selling stock secured a rig and drilled on a high hill. The derrick and part of the machinery is still standing. The well was drilled to a depth of over one thousand feet. The leases were held by the Holdrege company and when drilling ceased were turned over to a local bank and are held in escrow. It is understood a movement is now on foot to purchase these leases and the rig on the location by Beatrice interests, and start drilling as soon as possible.

FAIRBURY, Neb., Oct. 13.—Two hundred Methodist preachers and laymen of the Beatrice district met Wednesday evening at this place. District Superintendent Gettys presided at the meeting held after an informal luncheon in the basement. Bishop Burns of Montana delivered the address of the evening on "Our Duty in Evangelizing the World." More than five hundred dollars was pledged the centenary fund at the close of his discourse.

DIED IN NEBRASKA.

Wymore—Edwin B. Hinds, eighty-one years old, banker and prominent Gage county business manager, died at his home in Odell, west of here. He was buried Wednesday. Mr. Hinds was born in Ohio, and had been a resident of Odell from the day the town was laid out forty-one years ago. He had been failing for the past three years. He founded the bank now known as the Hinds State bank of Odell, and was interested in every feature of the upbuilding of the town. His son, Charles N. Hinds, of Odell, has been in active charge of the bank, and of the estate for several years.

Feed Apples to Hogs in Pawnee.

PAWNEE CITY, Neb, Oct 13.—The apple crop in Pawnee county is more bountiful this year than in any of the past ten, according to fruit growers. Choice fruit can be bought for fifty cents a bushsel at the farm, or twenty-five cents if you pick it yourself. Many farmers are feeding fine Jonathan apples to the hogs because they are worth more as hog feed than when marketed. Some apples are being shipped out.

COMPANY ASKS NEW RATE

Public Service Electric Light Concern Files Amended Answer and Counter-Claim.

AURORA, Neb., Oct. 13.—Seventeen and one-half cents is the maximum rate per kilowatt which the Public Service Electric Light company has asked authority to charge patrons of Aurora, according to the company's amended answer and counter-claim just filed in the United States District court in the suit brought by the city and now pending in Lincoln. The company wants permission to charge this rate for the first thirty kilowatts consumed by customers, and a scale downward from that rate. This is four and one half cents higher than the rate which they are seeking to compel the company to charge in its suit filed some months ago, the city contending for the thirteen cent rate provided in the franchise granted this company and with which it was content for a long period of years. The newly proposed rate is two and one-half cents higher than the special war-time rate granted the company, and which was fifteen cents for the first block with a scale downward for larger consumers. In its same amended pleading the electric light company claims it lost the net sums of $1,010 85 in 1919, $4,442.40 in 1920, and $2,204 27 in 1921, $1,272.69 for first half of 1922, altho admitting net profits in 1917 of $4,992.71, and $86.67 in 1918. The company says its plant in Aurora is worth $97.515. More than five thousand dollars has been charged off for depreciation each year. The franchise granted by the city provided that the city would share in all profits over 10 per cent earned by the company. The pending litigation asks for an accounting with the company of these profits for past years

Young Girls Need Care
FROM the age of twelve a girl needs all the care the thoughtful mother can give. Many a woman has suffered years of pain and misery—the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance of the mother who should have guided her during this time.
If she complains of headaches, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter make life easier for her.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for such conditions. It can be taken in safety by any woman, young or old.
Read How These Mothers Helped Their Daughters
Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I can not say too much about what your medicine has done for us."—Mrs. Wm. S. Hughes, Greenville, Del.
Wauseon, O.—"My daughter always had backache and legache at certain periods and could not be on her feet. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing girls so much good so she began to take it. That is two years ago and she is a different girl since then, able to do any work she wants to do—and so well and strong. We recommend the Vegetable Compound to mothers with ailing daughters."—Mrs. A. M. Burkholder, Route No. 2, Box 1, Wauseon, Ohio.

STUDY IMPORTS AT SOURCE

NEW YORK STUDENTS COMBINE WORK AND PLEASURE.

Dean Taylor Believes Ignorance Cripples Commerce and Delays International Understanding.

NEW YORK (By Mail.)—Probably the grocer would look at you reprovingly if you asked him whether he recalled that cloves had caused a war. The man who retails your silk, may not be aware that silk worms get pneumonia. And as for that warm and costly sports suit—how few merchants would know that its "raw materials" were clipped from the back of one of the "four sheep of the Incas?" The romance of raw products and even the knowledge of their origin vanish, too often, as soon as they are unloaded upon our docks. Dean Taylor of the graduate school of business administration (in New York university's Wall street division) believes that such ignorance cripples commerce and delays international understanding. He has a plan for banishing it, gradually and agreeably.

With a party of twenty-five students of commercial subjects—chiefly those who had registered for courses in raw materials—Dean Taylor has just returned from a tour of Caribbean lands. There they saw growing many of the products in which they had felt a business interest merely. They saw the people who raised them. They understood new things.

Combined with Vacation.

"It is our first attempt at the university," he said, "to study importations in the places where they are exportations. It seemed to be an excellent way to combine a summer course with a vacation. Lectures were given regularly, but the chance to observe these products on the ground was the great feature of the trip.

"We were gone only about a month, yet we saw the canefields of Cuba, the turtle farms and cocoanut groves of Panama, the great banana and cocoa plantations of Costa Rica. We saw raw products growing. Never was 'field work' in connection with a university course more enjoyed."

One of the most beautiful cities visited by Dean Taylor's party was San Jose de Costa Rica, famed for its delightful climate, its fine buildings, intellectual alertness and prosperity.

In Costa Rica the desire for better popular education is earnest. Unfortunately, teachers are so scarce that boys and girls of fifteen are obliged to conduct the rural schools. Much of the instruction there is in crafts and agriculture.

Here is indeed "the rich coast," according to Dean Taylor. A merchant showed him samples of twenty-five beautiful woods, all from the native forest. Leaving the jungles and banana groves of the lowlands behind, one may climb up the mountains into a clear, cool atmosphere that has made the city of Cartago a summer resort for the elite of the canal zone.

Brought Bananas Home.

"We saw coffee prepared for the market. The bushes are planted under banana trees for shade, the soil yielding two perpetual crops. We watched them gather and dry the cocoa beans. When we left Puerto Limon we took down a deck cargo of fresh fruits and vegetables for Panama, since in Panama those must be imported. On the trip home we brought fifty-seven thousand bunches of bananas.

"In Cuba we watched the pineapple harvest, and saw the aldeanos leading their pigs into market, carrying their chickens on their backs. They use ox carts for hauling there, too"—Dean Taylor, who is also head of the department of transportation, appeared to be lost in wonder at Caribbean persistence.

"I should like to make such trips a feature of our summer courses," he went on. "A visit to Chile would show importers how they raise those fruits and vegetables which it is thought may supplement California's in our winter and the Chilean summer. Chile could send us millions of crates of cantaloupes. The sisal plantations of Yucatan would be another instructive goal. All those lands to the south give us a rare opportunity to study raw materials of commerce at first hand, and we are going to take it."

CHAMBERLAIN DEFENDS SELF

Leader of British Unionist Party Declares Government's Foreign Policy Is Challenged.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Oct. 13—Austin Chamberlain, leader of the unionists party, made this afternoon the speech for which the country has been waiting—the first pronouncement of a cabinet member regarding the crisis with which the government is faced.

The lord privy seal, as Chamberlain is known officially, declared that not only was the government's foreign policy challenged, but his own position as unionist leader. He said he spoke under a sense of obligation to his party, with which he had acted loyally in parliament for thirty years.

Chamberlain said he thought that in the days of struggle and strife, a party should subordinate its own aims and personal considerations to the welfare of the empire. He contended he had carried out his party's policies while working in harmony with Lloyd George with the full assent of his party colleagues of the cabinet.

"I do not pretend to say when the election will come," Chamberlain said. 'It's the undoubted right of the premier to choose when to advise his majesty to dissolve parliament."

The state had charged manslaughter. The maximum verdict is one year in the penitentiary.

90 per cent of all diseases can be traced directly to constipation!

And, you can permanently rid yourself of this dangerous condition by the daily use of a delicious, appetizing cereal—Kellogg's BRAN, cooked and krumbled! Don't let constipation "get away" with you or any of your family! Don't neglect such danger signals as bad breath, coated tongue, brain fag, feverish headaches, bad taste! No matter how slight the symptoms, FIGHT CONSTIPATION! It is deadly, once it gets its grip on your system!

Physicians indorse Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, for constipation because it is nature's food and because it relieves constipation permanently. The only caution is to eat Bran regularly and then the severest case can be combated successfully! Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in chronic cases, eat Bran with each meal! Results will astonish you! Bran causes no irritation or discomfort. It sweeps and cleans and purifies, leaving the eliminative tract in healthy, active condition that throws off the poisons and keeps you free from dangerous toxic conditions!

You should know that Bran not only permanently relieves constipation, but is one of the most wonderful of foods. It is rich in all elements upon which the body thrives—mineral salts, proteins, fats, carbo-hydrates. Bran does wonderful work for children, making them strong and robust!

Eat Kellogg's Bran as a cereal or sprinkled over your favorite cereal; its nut-like flavor is delicious. Or, use it in countless palate-appealing ways for baking and cooking. Buy Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, from all grocers.

PIGGLY WIGGLY

Piggly Wiggly Stores in Lincoln are doing the same sa Piggly Wiggly Stores all over the World.

Not only the wonderful growth and volume we are enjoying, something greater; that is the great satisfaction in knowing that you are doing your town and vicinity, your own people a great service and good. Our customers have not only told us of the great good we are doing in Lincoln, and the big saving that we are making possible, they are demonstrating in the distance they come to do their trading at Piggly Wiggly Stores. A survey was made at store No. 1 of 100 customers, 10 each hour, on Wednesday, October 11th, that we might know the distance the people were coming to trade with us. To our surprise and only the people living within the City limits were included. The average distance traveled to trade at Piggly Wiggly Stores is 17 blocks. Think of the distance and the number of stores these same customers passed to reach our stores. They came from all directions. There are many of our customers keeping account on their grocery bill. Several have shown us where they have made a saving of from $15.00 to $21.00 per month. It is only a large organization like Piggly Wiggly with its thousands stores who can only afford to keep a department, devoting their time, watching markets, crop conditions and shortages, and all this that Piggly Wiggly Stores might be able to serve their customers better. Piggly Wiggly buyers and the research department are in constant touch with the largest markets and manufacturers in the world, because Piggly Wiggly Account is the largest grocery account in the world. This same trade information is sent to us here in Lincoln as it is sent to all parts of the country, for your benefit. With such an organization is it not easy for you to understand that we are leaders in our line; that we are in a position to see that you are supplied with table merchandise as cheaply as the supply and demand will permit. This service would be too expensive for an ordinary merchant to maintain. This service is nothing for Piggly Wiggly with its thousand stores.

Space will not permit us to tell all the features in our effort to sell you this wonderful organization. We are operating three stores in Lincoln. Expect to open more in a very short time. The people of southeast Lincoln have been asking for a Piggly Wiggly store. We have not been able to grant their request as both Piggly Wiggly Fixture factories are eight weeks behind.

ADAM DIDN'T HAVE 'EM

Hastings Editor Thru Deflections of Two Laundries Reaches Brazil in Bathing Suit and Bathrobe.

HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 13.—Adam Breede, the versatile writer and globe trotter, who publishes the Hastings Tribune, is just now doing South America.

Mr. Breede gives the following account of how and why he arrived in the equatorial territory, sans anything to wear except a bathing suit and a bath robe:

"Rio de Janeiro, Sept. 13.—By the time when I left New York, I left my laundry there—that is, I stopped at the Elks' club and they were to have my laundry back in time for me to get it and catch the boat, but thirty minutes before that time, I found out it was impossible to get it, as it was still in the wash. The manager was kind enough to inform me that he would have it ready in a few days; but that was not the worst of it.

"When I got to Pernambuco, a young English friend of mine joined me in sending our laundry ashore, including a suit of clothes of mine, and it was to be ready before sailing time. The boat left at 6 and at 6 there was no laundry.

"When the boat got out about a mile away from the shore, we saw a negro running up and down the wharf waving some packages. He finally threw them into a row boat and tried to catch the steamer. I guess he is rowing yet. So you see, I arrived down here in a bathing suit and a bath-robe. I guess I ought to be thankful for that."

LARGEST LOG CABIN IN WORLD.

AURORA, Ill., Oct. 13—Seventeen carloads of Wisconsin tamaracks and two carloads of birch put together by 40 Wisconsin lumberjacks, form the largest log cabin in the world. The building is at Aurora. It will be used for display purposes and meetings of the national lumber manufacturers association.

BIBLE STOLEN FREQUENTLY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—More copies of the Bible are stolen from the main library at Columbia university than any other book. Books on ethics run second.

B. F. C. Hyde, state insurance superintendent, ordered a 10 per cent reduction in rates on fire, lightning, hail and windstorm insurance charged by all stock fire, lightning, hail, and windstorm companies doing business in Missouri.

Carl Mead, who was arrested Wednesday night for being drunk, was given his preference between going to jail and immediately leaving the city, by Police Judge Whitmore in court Friday morning. Mead decided to get out of this city.

On Monday evening the Y. M. C. A. will be host to the cabinets of the college associations. Part of the evening will be devoted to discussion of problems of activities and the remainder to games and social features.

Morris Polsky, 1020 B, and Jack Little, 1036 G, were each fined $5 and costs Friday morning by Police Judge Whitmore for speeding. Little was also booked for driving with an open cutout on his car.

Leo Smith was arrested at 1:45 a. m. Friday on a charge of drunkenness by Detective Longstreth and Driver Waite. He was found at Fifteenth and O. He will appear in police court at 9 a. m. Friday.

Physical Director John Fuhrer of the Y. M. C. A. spoke before the district teachers association at McCook on Thursday evening, presenting the needs of supervised play in the schools and opportunities of physical education.

Thursday being a vacation day, the boys division planned a nature study hike for the membership. At 9 a. m. about forty boys, accompanied by Associate Secretary J. E. Warrington, hiked to Stephens creek for the day. Each boy took his lunch and prepared it himself.

The congregation of the Nazarene church, 1018 E street, began an all day meeting Friday with devotions at 9:30 and a sermon at 11 by Evangelist Balsmeier. Mrs. Johansen was to lead the afternoon devotionals and Rev. Mr. McMullen give the sermon, Evangelist Balsmeier will preach again at 8:30 o'clock.

The case of Leo Smith, who was arrested early Friday morning on charges of drunkenness, was continued until Saturday morning by Police Judge Whitmore. Smith told the police judge that he was beaten up back of an O street restaurant. He appeared in police court Friday morning with a black eye and a cut on the face.

The city of Chadron has appealed to the supreme court from judgments for damages in favor of two merchants, W. W. Parsons and W. L. Randall, as the result of certain grades established when paving was laid. Their stocks of goods were flooded after a rainstorm, and they proved to the satisfaction of the trial court that the city was responsible. It says it is not, and asks a supreme court ruling. A total of $4,000 is involved.

Friday the thirteenth brought a little bad luck to the state board of control. A hog barn at the Norfolk hospital for the insane burned and with it four brood sows and ten little pigs. The loss is estimated at $400. The building was of wood and is supposed to have caught fire from a coal stove used for heating purposes. It will not be rebuilt this year.

From October 15 to November 1 a membership campaign will be staged in the boys' Y. M. C. A. division for a goal of 100 new members, which is about the number that can be accommodated in the plant. It will take the form of an ocean-to-ocean flight. Each division of the membership will have a flying ship and the flight will be from New York to San Francisco. There will be five divisions: Grade A, Grade B, junior high, senior high, and employed boys.

A divorce was granted Mrs. Ada B. Fitchie on her cross petition against Guy D. Fitchie, Friday morning in Dstrict Judge Morning's court. The plaintiff in the case was the husband, who alleged general incompatibility of temperament and desertion. Neither party made allegations against the morals of the other. Mr. Fitchie had agreed to pay $25 a month for the suport of their sixteen year old daughter. The Fitchies were married in University Place November 20, 1905.

The Pennsylvania fuel commission has sent to the state railway commission, fuel administrator for Nebraska, a statement of how much hard coal may be expected in the various towns of the state. The statement gives how much was shipped and sold between April 1, 1921, and March 3, 1922, and how much will be shipped between now and March 31st next. Lincoln, in the period named for last year, got 2178 tons and this season will get 1307 tons. The corresponding figures for Omaha are 10,284 tons and 6,170 tons.

Virgil King, Omaha convict paroled October 24, 1921, has been returned to the penitentiary. Chief Probation Officer N. T. Harmon asked the board of paroles to revoke King's parole on the ground that he had forged his employer's name to monthly reports filed with the board and had not been at work since he began to falsify his reports in June. King was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced September 23, 1920, to serve from one to seven years in the penitentiary. He is said to have loafed and used "dope" since he was paroled.

The state railway commission has validated a number of charges for extra services that the Farmers' Independent Telephone company of Red Cloud has been charging without authority. It also allows the company to make only net charges for telephone service. Some time ago it was authorized to add 25 cents a month where the patron did not pay by the twentieth of the current month, but owing to competitive conditions the company abandoned the practice. The commission says it may continue to do so, as it has no desire to compel this to be done contrary to the desire of any telephone company.

Charles Barker, 846 A, was fined $10 and costs for drunkenness when he appeared Friday morning before Police Judge Whitmore. He was arraigned before Justice W. A. PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

The Berean class of the Grace Methodist church held their annual banquet in the parlors of the church Thursday evening. About sixty members and guests were present and were seated at two long tables beautifully decorated with orange and black to carry out Hallowe'en suggestions. Bowls of garden flowers and asparagus ferns also added to the attractiveness of the room. The guests who were present were Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Wilkinson, Rev. and Mrs. O. W. Low and Fred S. Talbot. Lew T. Skinner was toastmaster. Short talks were given by members of the class. Mrs. Edward Albrecht gave a synopsis of the early history of the class. Burt A. Button, president of the class, spoke on the possibilities of the class in 1923. Mrs. H. R. Ball spoke on the many good times and get togethers the class had held. Jay Witham spoke on "Boosting" and Hollus Asky brought the class to its feet by exposing jokes on the various members. Fay Hevelone spoke on the aims and ideals of the class. The Berean male quartet sang several selections. Short talks were made by Dr. Wilkinson and Mr. Talbot, teacher of the class and Dr. Albrecht spoke on athletics. The class has made a record during the past year in athletics, having won the inter-church baseball championship and also the inter-church tennis doubles. The class is composed entirely of young married people and in the three years it has been organized has increased its membership from twenty to over a hundred.

Miss Laura H. Wild, who was general secretary of the Lincoln young women's association and also pastor of the Belmont church about twenty-five years ago has recently copleted a new book, 'A Literary Guide to the Bible.' Miss Wild now teaches the Bible classes of Mount Holyoke college and the book was prepared primarily as a textbook for her students. The Springfield Republican, reviewing the book says:

'Professor Wild has wirtten the book primarily for her college classes, but it is probably that she had in mind a larger constituency outside the classroom door who could profit quite as much from this reverent and sane excursion into Hebrew literature. Certain it is that she has done much to answer the prayer that many modern reader quotes from the Psalms: 'Open thou mine eyes that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law." Prof. Wild divides her subpect into eight classes: Folklore, story telling, history, poetry, drama, wisdom, oratory and essay. More than half the book is devoted to folklore and poetry in about equal sections. Besides giving illustrations and comment, each chapter is made more practical by parallel illustrations from other literature, ancient and modern.'

Master Bobby Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Williams, 130 South Thirty-first, celebrated his fourth birthday Thursday by entertaining a few little guests at an attractive Hallowe'en party. Games were played by the children and prizes were won by Paul Black and Dick Wilson. The kiddies were seated at one large table in the center of which was a Jack Horner pie and on one end was a birthday cake lit with four candles. Among those present were Patsy Herminghaus, Virginia Towle, Betty Jane Williams, Clara Allen, Virginia Davis, Gertrude Moritz, Billy Ackert, Paul Black, Jack Haney, Dick Wilson, Stanley Kirk and Junior Bush. An out-of-town guest was Bobby's grandmother, Mrs. J. C. Limbeck of Chicago.

Black Masque chapter of Mortarboard will entertain at dinner at the Lincolnshire Friday evening at 6 o'clock for alumnae who are in Lincoln to attend the state teachers' convention. About forty active and alumnae members will be present. Pink roses will form the decoration and the place cards are to be hand-painted. Miss Valeria Bonnell will preside as toastmistress and call for responses from Miss Marian Wyman for the alumnae and Miss Adelheit Dettman for the active members.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS.

Lasch—The body of T. F. Lasch, a former prominent business man and old resident of Lincoln will arrive Saturday from Kansas City and will be taken to Castle, Roper and Matthews. Funeral services will be held in Wyuka, but the hour has not been fixed yet. He will be buried beside his wife who died several years ago. The sudden death of Mr. Lasch came as a great shock to his many Lincoln friends. A short time ago he was in the city to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Henry B. Trigg. At that time he expressed himself as being in the best of health. Mr. Lasch was a pioneer candy manufacturer of Lincoln and for years the firm of Lasch Brothers was in business here. Later, in partnership with a son-in-law, he was engaged in the retail grocery business on South Thirteenth street. He was seventy-one years old. He was a prominent worker in Odd Fellowship in Lincoln and in the state.

Rood—Funeral services for Richard Rood, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Rood of 1001 Sumner street, who was killed Wednesday when struck by an automobile, were held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Wadlow parlors. Rev. G. B. Bancroft had charge, and burial was in Wyuka. The casket was covered with flowers. Governor S. R. McKelvie sent a bouquet of Ophelia roses, the Nebraska Farmer a bouquet of pink roses and employes a wreath four feet high. Relatives, neighbors and friends and the school authorities sent flowers. Three hymns were sung. They were "There Is Not a Friend Like the Lowly Jesus," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and "When He Cometh to Make Up His Jewels." The services were attended by a large number of people.

DeVore—The body of Martha Jane DeVore is being held at the Splain & Schnell chapel pending funeral arrangements.

Schaff—H. D. Schaff died September 30 at Rockwood, Pa. He was well known in Nebraska a few years ago as a teacher, and spent several years at Kearney as teacher and assistant superintendent in the state industrial school.

NOTED CORSET EXPERT AT GOLD & COMPANY STORE

Madame Dahl Finds Real Mission in Advocating the Correct Fitting of Corsets.

The woods are full of careers for women. They lurk in unexpected places. Mme. Dahl found her career in those everyday utilitarian garments which we call corsets and our grandmother called stays. She saw that corsets, which were scientifically designed and accurately made, often became instruments of torture thru lack of proper fitting. She saw women whose figures were made unattractive thru bte wearing of corsets which did not suit their particular style of beauty. In short, she saw possibilities of a lucrative career by becoming a consulting expert on corsets.

It would have been possible for Mme. Dahl to open a shop on Michigan Avenue and serve a favored few. However, after a long study of anatomy and the theory and practice of corsetry, she went to a nationally known corsets manufacturer and easily convinced him there was a real mission in advising women upon the selection and wearing of corsets, and in showing them how to be sure they were property fitted. As a result, Mme. Dahl now has the profession of "Corsetiere" and she personally helps hundreds of women in the course of a year in the leading metropolitan cities thruout the country. At present she is at the Gold & Company store, so can speak for herself about her work.

"I think it is the most fascinating calling in the world," Mme. Dahl told the reporter when interviewed during a lull in her work. "Each day I have the fun of helping other women realize the full meaning of corset comfort. I study each woman who visits me, analyze the curves of her body and use my long experience and knowledge of anatomy to prescribe just the corset which will give her the most comfort. I find her the corset which fits her figure exactly, as the designer intended."

"Often several styles of corsets will fit perfectly but only one style will give the desired figure effect. This is particularly evident this year when long skirts are decreed by Dame Style and the fashions are stately and dignified with graceful draperies. This keynote of grace must be carried out in figure as well as gown. To the uninitiated it is a baffling problem, a graceful stout seems almost impossible. But it is not even difficult when you have years of training and know the type of corset which will transform and improve the figure. I'm glad to say I have been remarkably successful in helping women find corsets which actually transform their figures.

"It has been interesting to see the change in the attitude of the medical profession and fashion authorities toward corsets. As the art of scientific corset making has developed the prejudices against them have, for the most part, vanished and today every one realizes the necessity of the proper and hygienic support that is given by a perfect corset. A delightful side to my work," Mme. Dahl continued, "is that I meet so very many women. This week, for example, I am here at Gold's store for the entire week. The women of Lincoln can come to me for consultations and advice which costs them absolutely nothing and places them under no obligation. I have the pleasure of studying each individual case and recommending the correct style to give a stylish figure without sacrificing either comfort or health. There is no sameness, no formula to follow in this work. It is just the art of giving each woman the corset which suits her figure best.

"Then, when I leave, I have the satisfaction of knowing that many Lincoln women are going to know new corset comfort, enjoy better health and have transformed figures because of my visit. That is the best part of all."—Advertisement.

NOT ELIGIBLE TO HOLD TWO OFFICES

Candidate Must Choose Between County Assessor and Seat in the Lower House of the Legislature.

Questions relating to the ballot are being passed upon nearly every day by Mr. Amsberry. He has decided that it will be impossible for George Peters of Hay Springs to run for the office of county assessor and for representative in the legislature for two reasons.

One is that a legislator cannot hold a lucrative office under the authority of state or federal government and the state law says a candidate cannot have his name printed twice upon the sme ballot. In regard to the letter Mr. Amsberry holds that the state, legislative and congressional tickets constitute one ballot and that a city ticket, tho part of the same sheet of paper is probably a separate ballot. He does not pass upon the right of a legislator to hold city office.

The right of the democratic state committee to certify the nomination of H. L. Swanson as the democratic nominee for state senator in the hirty-first district is being questioned by democrats. Mr. Amsberry holds the nomination good unless a protest is filed and the matter taken into court. J. S. Kroh of Ogallala, republican nominee, obtained democratic votes in the primary, there being no democratic nominee on the ballot, but B. K. Bushee of Kimball, republican defeated for nemination received the highest number of democratic votes. Mr. Bushee is ineligible because of his defeat in the republican primary and the secretary of state holds that Mr. Kroh cannot be substituted for Bushee as a democratic candidate. Mr. Kroh contends there is no democratic senatorial district committee and therefore the democrats must be required to hold a district convention to nominate a democrat to fill the vacancy on the ticket.

GOES TO ILLINOIS TO SUPPORT A WET

Democratic Congressional Candidate Temporarily Dry and W. J. Bryan to Make a Speech in His Behalf.

Chairman Perry of the republican state committee has discovered signs of consistency in the campaigning of W. J. Bryan, who is just finishing up a plea for Senator Hitchcock, an irreconcilable wet who is temporarily dry. As soon as Mr. Bryan finishes here and makes a speech in Minnesota, he goes to Peoria, Ill., to speak on behalf of Jesse Black, jr. Black like Hitchcock, has always been a wet and was a candidate on the wet ticket there in 1914. This year he has flopped to the dry side in the race for congress on the democratic ticket.

Judge Perry is in receipt of a letter from William E. Hull, republican opponent of Black. The letter from the Illinois candidate contains the following:

"Bryan, as I understand it, is now supporting Senator Hitchcock in order to help his brother. I also understand from other senators that Hitchcock is wet and never had any other pretensions. If Bryan makes speeches there, please give me any information you can as to his duplicity on the wet and dry issue.

I have conceived the idea that he is going to play Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde.'

Judge Perry's reply:

'Under separate cover we are sending you newspaper clippings which show that W. J. Bryan is declaring in Nebraska that the wet and dry issue is settled. Two years ago, he told the voters that if they would elect him a delegate to the San Francisco convention that he would come back here when Hitchcock came up for re-election and campaign against him.

'Instead of keeping that promise he is now urging Hitchcock's election. Two years ago, Bryan accused Hitchcock of being a tool of Wall street, a reactionary opposed to woman suffrage and to prohibition. It is inconceivable that he will have much influence if he goes to your district and attempts to make prohibition an issue.

"If he does so, please advise us promptly. A copy of an affidavit showing what W. J. Bryan promised two years ago, is enclosed.'

Why StayFat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4512 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and safely without going through long nights of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.—Advertisement.

Who will conduct an institute next Week for five evenings under the auspices of the Social welfare society. The general subject of the institute will be "Social Work and Its Place in Our American Democracy." C. E. Prevey of the social welfare society received a telegram from Dr. Devine to the effect that President Harding had appointed him to act on the coal commission and asking that his institute work be postponed for two weeks. On account of the number of engagements scheduled here, however Mr. Prevey wired him that the dates could hardly be postponed and Dr. Devine wired that he would carry out his schedule.

THINKS HE WAS MARTINE

Minnesota Woman Writes Police Chief Johnstone of Activities in Fergus Falls Recently.

An individual thought to be the same as the socalled advance agent of the Lost Battalion, Serg. J. J. Martine, who cashed several checks in this city recently passed under the name of James Lattimore Hinrod at Fergus Falls, Minn, last August and planned a great work, the organization of the Lake Marion Chautauqua and a Lake Marion Summer school, and tehn left the country after collecting money subscribed by citizens to the enterprise. hTis information was given Chief of Police Johnstone in a letter from Mrs. George White of Richville, Minn. She sent some snapshote of the laying of the foundation of the summer school which also contained a likeness of the socalled James Hinrod. hTis likeness corresponds with the description of eSrg. Martine.

The amount of money collected by this organizing was not stated in the letter. The work proceeded to the extnnt of laying the corner stone of the college with an elaborate program. In the Fergus aFlls Tribune, a copy of which was received by the chief of police, isa lengthy article o fthe stupendous plans of James Hinrod.

EDUCATORS FEELING NEW RESPONSIBILITY

Going to Make Public Sit Up and Take Notice, President of N. E. A. Tells Kiwanis Club.

'Our profession is going to make the rest of the ocuntry sit up and take notice," President William B. Owen of the national education asociation told the Kiwanis club Friday noon. 'The time is past, or passing, when school teachers were held in slightly less esteem than other professions or than business men. You can see than time mirrored in American literature as in the new school of novels you are beginning to se yourselves, the business men.

'The time has come when we are ready to ask other organizations, social an edivic as well as professional, to back us in our program. That program includes making our national association a real union of the state organizations, and getting adequate recognition by the government, and form the government. Today the only thing the government avowedly does for us is to maintain a commissioner of education, head of a subordinate bueau in the department of the interior, with a small appropiration. Of course it does other things, but thru a variety of agencies.

"We think it is not right that a miscellaneous group of citizens good intelligent people but without technical equipment, should have the last word in matters of the technique of education. This condition has made the teacher timid, has taken away his courage and made it ou of the question for him to do much of the work he is really capable of and eager to do—and this includes much outside actual school room methods. We are picking up courage now, and we are going to raise our standards and thru association establish high general and impersonal standards for educational methods, policies and procedure. The schools and the public will benefit by this asosciation, for it will put every new idea thru a series of tests. if a program gets it out that your local standards are at least up to state standards. The national association will do the same thing in a still larger way.

"America was the first country to establish public education on such a scale as it prevails here, and its school system is, I think, its greatest contribution to world progress, except its form of government. But it has never been adequately administered, and that is the situation we are getting out to remedy."

CONVICT SAYS HE SLEW BOY

Ciscerra Estrada Declares He Killed Thirteen-Year-Old Boy in Cheyenne.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 13. — Sheriff George J. Carroll was notified by the Nebraska penitentiary authorities at Lincoln that Ciscerra Estrada, former Cheyenne Mexican, who is serving a term of from ufteen years to life in the Nebraska prison for murder, had confessed that he slew thirteen year old Harry Moll in Cheyenne, July 21, 1921. The Mexican's alleged confession is so inconsistent with the murdered boy's age and strength, however, as to cause skepticism here. The Moll child was with his mother at the municipal camping ground here when he was permitted to go down town to attend a picture show. Four days lafer his body was found in a shack in West Cheyenne. Estrada, in his alleged confession is quoted as relating that the Moll child became drunk on bootleg whisky bought from Estrada, that the liquor made the child so quarrel some that he threatened to "turn in" Estrada to the police for bootlegging, and finally attacked the full grown man with the intention of taking back the money paid for the whisky. Then, according to Estrada's alleged confession, Estrada engaged in a battle to the death with the thirteen-year-old boy and slew him in self-defense.

Inasmuch as Estrada is in the Nebraska prison no attempt will be made at this time to bring him to Cheyenne for trial.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Grain prices advanced sharply on the Chicago board of trade today on heavy buying for export. Corn and oats were the leaders in the uptrend due to a feeling among local traders that coarse grain prices were out of line and too cheap in comparison with wheat. Cash corn prices advanced sharply in the last hour.

Provisions closed lower.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13—Interest in grain futures is being revived. Foreigners have awakened to the realization that they have let cheap grain get away from them and they, as well as leading local operators are now satisfied that the period of low prices has passed. A leading exporter reported yesterday that they had worked oats to exporters overnight from Chicago. They report a strong inquiry in the market for all kinds of grain, but business restricted by the transportation situation. The outlet for oats is steadily broadening and the period for natural accumulation of that grain at visible points if nearly passed. Sentiment in favor of higher prices is very strong.—Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

Thomson McKinnon: It is not reasonable to expect any pronounced weakness in grains under present conditions.

Logan & Bryan: We look for an extension of the upward movement.

Bartlett-Frazier & Co.: Higher prices can easily be accomplished. ..

E. Lowitz: We look for higher prices.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: Outside interest is becoming broader.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Opening prices on the New York stock exchange today included: Southern railway 26¾, off ¼; Reading 80⅝, up ¾; Mexican Petroleum 203, up 4; Brooklyn Rap. Transit 16⅛, up ½; Baldwin 135¼, off ¾; Union Pacific 150⅝, off ⅛; Pennsylvania, 45¾; Anaconda 51⅞; New Haven 30⅝, up ⅛; Studebaker 135¾, up ⅛; U. S. Steel 107⅞, up ⅛.

Announcement of heavy oversubscription for the $500,000,000 treasury offering demonstrated the huge total of funds awaiting investment and furnished further evidence of the strong groundwork on which the present bull market is based at the opening of the stock exchange today. While Standard Oil of New Jersey had a sharp break, reflecting disappointment over the fact that the 400 per cent stock dividend entailed no increase in the present rate of cash payments, the general market was strong. Most of the industrial leaders showed fractional gains in the early dealings while rails were generally higher.

ROB MESSENGER ON CAR

Two Kansas City Bandits Board Crowded Street Car and Get Away With $9,500 in Cash.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 13.—Two bandits boarded a crowded street car today and held passengers at the point of revolvers while they robbed a bank messenger of a satchel containing $9,500 in cash.

The holdup occurred on the border of the business district during the noon rush hour. The messenger was taking the cash from the federal reserve bank to the Livestock Exchange bank.

The bandits escaped in an automobile. Several men standing near commandeered another motor car and gave chase. Police also took up the pursuit.

TRIES TO MAKE BEST OF IT

Woman of Ninety-five Living in Omaha Desires to Be Thought "a Good Sport.

OMAHA, Oct. 13—Ninety-five years old, October 24, Mrs. Eveline Child's chief desire is to be acclaimed "a good sport."

'Life has many ups and downs—especially a long life—but it's the best life I ever lived and I always try to make the best of it.'

That's her philosophy, ripened with nearly a century's experience, first as the daughter of pioneers who emigrated to the west from Virginia in a prairie schooner, and later as the wife of a Methodist circuit rider preacher in the sparsely settled districts of Iowa more than forty years ago.

Mrs. Child now makes her home with a son, George B. Child. She will celebrate her birthday at the home of a daughter in Blair.

Mrs. Child was the first white child born in Lafayette, Ind. It was in 1817, John Quincy Adams' administration.

Five wars, beginning with the Black Hawk outbreak, ran their course during her lifetime, but the civil war stands out the clearest in the memory of the little nonagenarian.

Her memories of Abraham Lincoln are vivid for she lived in Morgan county, Illinois, the next one to that in which Lincoln lived and her eldest borther bore a striking resemblance to the martyred president, she said.

'Lincoln was an idol to us, but we didn't like his wife. She had two brothers in the rebel army," said Mrs. Child. She also related how Mrs. Lincoln exhibited a curious penchant for curtains.

"She had one room in her house filled with nothing but boxes of curtains of every size and description which she never used. We always thought she was not quite right."

BANKER CARRIES PAPERS

Pittsburgh Note Teller Keeps Route for Years, Finding It Benefits His Health.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 13. — From newsboy to banker is a road over which many men have traveled to business success, and as a rule the rise from the job of the street with its accompanying lack of dignity and polish to a position behind a mahogany desk with all the conventionalities usually associated with such a role is slow, and the man who makes the climb is himself gradually transformed in many ways as he takes the successive steps between the two jobs. The dignified banker, tho he once may have been an efficient newsboy, would as a rule probably be as much out of place selling papers as any dirty-faced newsboy would be behind a banker's polished desk with its mysteries of finance, but not so with William Cornman of Pittsburgh.

Cornman is proud that many people know that the smoothly-shaven, smartly dressed William Cornman, note teller of the First National bank, is the same William Cornman who, dressed in the clothes of an outdoor man and wearing heavy shoes, crawls out of bed every morning at 4:30 o'clock and delivers four hundred papers in the Squirrel Hill district.

He is firmly of the opinion that satisfactory results from exercises are frequently lacking because of the irregularity with which they are taken, and in an original way has tied up physical open air exercises with something demanding daily attention.

"I have carried papers on the Hill for twenty-three years. I began when I was eight. At one time I rode a western broncho and covered the whole hill, but it was not built up at that time as now. I carried morning, afternoon and Sunday papers while I was a student in high school. I was kept busy, but the walking gave me pep.

"I have never been sick or forced to lie on the flat of my back.

"One time, I decided to quit the paper job and lie in bed mornings like other men.

"Indigestion soon began to haunt me by taking the joy out of life. I was in danger of forgetting how to smile and be cheerful. I began to take early morning walks; then, I ran around the Schenley oval. My indigestion left me. Then I decided that I needed that old paper route. I applied for it, got it, was happy and am happy."

Cornman's appearance speaks for itself. He is of medium height, athletic, wiry, without an ounce of superfluous flesh, and his face and demeanor is that of a confirmed optimist.

APPRECIATION

Lincoln, Neb., October 9, 1922.

Culbertson and Roe, Lincoln, Neb.

Gentlemen:

I wish to thank your firm and your efficient salesmen for the real service you have been to me. Less than ten days ago I decided to sell my home and furniture and move to Portland. I could not help but dread the undertaking, when a friend of mine told me to turn my selling over to you and you would do the rest, and you certainly have. You found a cash buyer for my home inside of five days and today you have sold and at a fair price, every bit of household furnishing I had and that for cash. I cannot recommend your firm too highly, not only for your ability, but for your courtesy and fairness.

(Signed) MARY REGAN.

MEN AND THINGS

The declaration of the state Congregational conference in favor of the community church indicates the growth of liberalism that promises to remold things religiously speaking. When the ministers and the elders, who usually are selected as conference delegates, begin to look at the question of churching a community as most men do, without regard to denomination, we are getting far. The proof of whether a town is overchurched is in the character of the churches that it seeks to maintain. Where these are small and poor, the problem is solved by combining them in a strong community organization with denominationalism eliminated.

Our forefathers and some of the elderly persons of today made a great deal of religion as an emotion. This was because they looked upon being saved as a personal task. Some one has said that emotion is useful only when it stimulates us to action, and if the emotion is not carried out in practical action the soul becomes as a cinder. The only religion worth while, as most men view it nowadays, is that which inspires not only good conduct, kindliness of manner and square dealing, but which seeks to serve others. The stronger the church with ideals like this the more it places its impress upon its community.

School taxes are high and will continue to increase unless parents change their attitude towards the school as an institution. The trend for the last ten years has been towards turning over to the schools the training of children in home duties, and to making them the apprentice schools for various trades. Now all of this costs money because it calls for specially trained teachers. In addition we are teaching them the fine arts and music, we are hiring school nurses, pay a physician to examine them periodically and in many schools the teacher helps get their lunch. If we want these things we must pay for them.

The confusion doubtless arises from this fact: That while such well known wets are running for congress as Hanley, Morehead and Shallenberger and while a number of old-time wets are hunting seats in the legislature and while the association opposed to prohibition is active in the campaign, it is not an issue because the wet democrats and the dry democrats have divided the offices between them and have decided not to have it an issue this year. The people should understand that an issue is not an issue until the democratic leaders have decided whether it is to their advantage or disadvantage.

Three of the men most famous in the world of philosophy are Schopenhauer, Fichte and Hegel. A man is acclaimed as a philosopher if he sets himself down to explain the beginning and meaning of things. An intellect so great as to be able to do that ought to be above petty jealousy and egotism. Yet Hegel said of himself, "I am the truth," Schopenhauer said that Hegel's philosophy was three-fourths nonsense and one fourth error, containing words and not thoughts. To Fichte he said: "Tell me if in all this rubbish you really mean anything or do you take me simply for an imbecile like yourself?"

It is plain from whence American court procedure was brought. The trial of the Bulgarian ministers who brought Bulgaria into the war on the side of Germany is now entering its second year. It took an entire month to read the indictment. The prosecutor opened the case with a seventeen day speech, and the chief counsel for the defendants took twenty days to read the introduction to his defense. The trial waited three years after the indictments were first returned because it took that long for the defendants to prepare their speeches. In time we may hope to reach such heights of perfection in dealing out justice.

SIDE TALKS

(By Ruth Cameron.)

A Typically American Scene.

If I were an artist and wanted to paint a picture of a typically American scene, there are two subjects that I should choose.

One would be the crowd at the Harvard-Yale game. I suppose it would be difficult to catch the spirit of that vast gathering but if one could get something of the vastness, the enthusiasm the extravagance, the intensity, one would get something typically American.

And the other typically American scene would be the station at some summer resort at the time of the morning train on which the men go to work or the evening train when they come back."

(One might do both morning and evening, and reverse Mr. Brownine's "Meeting at Night and Parting in the Morning" for a title).

Is Your Station Like This.

I think I like the morning scene best. At our own particular station there is a lovely background of tree covered hill. The little country station is ugly, to be sure; but being old and weather beaten it does not offend the landscape like new ugliness. The men who have come over in the bus stand around the platform in little groups laughing and joking each other. Private machines drive up from time to time, the man gets out, the woman takes his wheel, two or three youngsters swarm over the back seat to kiss daddy goodbye. Some of the wives sit there waiting for the train, knights of the modern joust, give the wheel a competent twist and are gone back to their duties or pleasure.

A Fine oLt of Men.

The men are a fine looking lot, clean shaven, well groomed, well dressed, but not too well dressed. They are men at their best age, mostly between 30 and 50,—men of force and drive, (else they would not have won thru to sufficient success to make two homes a possibility), men of that fine starters throw back a smile to their [illegible] of hard work but not crushed by the grind of a monotonous poverty.

I love the way they jolly each other [illegible] and the bus man who brings them over and the pretty girl who sells the tickets. I love their boyish laughs and their good carriage and their clean others set trimly shod feet on electric cut American good looks. And I love the generosity which makes them willing to spend three hours of their day on trains and busses that their women and children may be kept from the burden and heat of the city.

I don't know whether it would be possible for an artist to put some of this feeling into a picture. Perhaps it wouldn't produce an artistic effect. I don't know. Come to think of it an artist did do something of the sort once and it was a very popular picture. Do you remember Gibson's "Monday morning?" (Don't confess being that old you don't feel like it). Haven't we someone who can do a companion piece to that? I should like to hang it on my wall.

Tomorrow—Too Much Talk.
